

3 VIOLENT DEATHS IN CO. OVER SUNDAY

NOMINATION OF SEN. BLACK STRIKES SNAG

Approval by Senate Committee Develops Fight

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Senate judiciary committee approved the Supreme Court nomination of Senator Black (D-Ala.) in a hotly-fought session today, but the opposition to his confirmation developed immediately on the Senate floor.

A few minutes after the committee had voted, 13 to 4, to report the nomination favorable, Senator White (R-Me.) took the floor to argue that Black was not eligible for appointment to the court.

The approval was voted after a motion by Senator Austin (R-Vt.) to delay action had been defeated, 11 to 5.

Members of the committee said the session was one of the liveliest in years.

In the center of the argument, they said, were Senators Burke (D-Neb.) and Dieterich (D-Ill.) who clashed over Burke's proposal to summon Black himself for questioning by the committee.

Dieterich Bitter Committee members said Dieterich used such bitter language that Burke rose from his seat at the tables and started for the Illinois member, but Senators Hatch (D-NM); McGill (D-Kan.) and Van Gys (D-Ind.) sitting between them, stopped him.

After the meeting, Burke dismounted reports of personal bitterness, and displayed a cigar he said Dieterich had given him as they left the meeting.

The row started, committeemen said, when Dieterich condemned, without using anyone's name, what he called an effort to "besmirch" Black in the newspapers by committee members.

Senator Neely (D-W Va.), chairman of the subcommittee which first considered the nomination, said the argument during the committee session was chiefly over "constitutional questions."

Only two record votes were held in the four and a half hour executive session of the committee.

Neely moved to report the Black nomination favorably. Burke moved as a substitute that the committee delay until it could examine the legal ability of the nominee.

Committee Line-up The vote rejecting Burke's substitute was 11 to 5, with the committee line-up as follows:

For the motion: King (D-Utah); McCarran (D-Nev); Burke, (D-Neb); Austin (R-Vt); and Steiwer (R-Ore).

Those Against Motion Against the motion: Neely, Van Nuys (D-Ind); Logan (D-Ky); Dieterich (D-Ill); McGill (D-Kan); Hatch (D-NM); Pittman (D-Nev); Connally (D-Tex); Hughes (D-Id); Borah (R-Ida); and Ashurst (D-Ariz).

Then Neely's motion for a favorable report was approved 13 to 4, with the following line-up:

For: Neely, McCarran, Van Nuys, (Continued on Page 6)

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Sophie Filipowicz, 13, of Russell, Ill., was struck by a passenger train here and lived to tell about it.

She was walking along a spur track when the train struck her. She was hurled several yards.

Deputy sheriffs, who gave her first aid treatment, said the girl was able to walk from the scene.

Condition of Illinois Corn Best Of Important Corn States, Aug. 1

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Illinois' August 1 condition at 92 per cent was the highest of all important corn states, A. J. Surratt, federal statistician, reported today, but drought and heat in the more northern counties, where the crop is late, and in some spots downstate, have lowered the prospects slightly.

Surratt said in his weekly crop review that despite the need for rain in these areas to relieve drought conditions, offset insect activities and to put the soil in condition for plowing, the state prospect for late crops continued above average to very favorable.

Corn stands in much of the state as well, heavy and well

Law Breakers

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Congress learned today that the National Labor Relations Board, created to improve conditions for workers, had been working its own stenographers "60 or 70 hours a week."

Seeking $15,000 extra for an increase in work that followed the Supreme Court's decision upholding the labor relations act, Benedict Wolf, secretary of the board, told a house appropriations subcommittee:

"Stenographers in our regional offices are working 60 or 70 hours a week. We knew that we had no right to demand that of them, but we could not help ourselves."

MOTHER AND TWO DAUGHTERS DIE IN AUTO CRASH

Five Others Injured Ten Miles West of Elgin Today

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A mother and two daughters, one a twin, were dead today and five other persons suffered injuries as the result of an automobile collision 10 miles west of here.

Their deaths raised the Illinois automobile toll over the week end to at least nine.

Mrs. Hulda Hitzeman, 44, and her daughters, Letha, 18, the twin, and Viola, 20, all of Elgin, were killed when the car driven by Martin Hitzeman, husband and father of the victims, collided last night with one driven by E. F. Melby of Mokena. The Hitzeman machine overturned.

Lois Westberg, 9, also of Elgin, was reported in critical condition at an Elgin hospital. She was riding with the Hitzemans. Others injured were Hitzeman, Lucille Hitzeman, twin sister of Letha, Melby and his companion, J. P. Hayden of Joliet.

A 10-month-old girl, Barbara Ann Perry, was killed and two others, including her mother, were injured in a two-car crash at Dubois. Frank Chairney, 50-year-old WPA worker, was injured fatally when struck by a truck near Glen Carbon.

Automobiles killed four persons in Chicago.

William George, 22, drowned in the Mississippi river at Quincy when he stepped into a hole while wading.

6 DROWNED AT PICNIC

Wester, S. D., Aug. 16.—(AP)—With six members of 4-H picnic party drowned and at least a dozen others saved only by heroic rescue efforts, gloom today shrouded this northeastern South Dakota area.

Seeking relief in bathing from the state's most intense heat wave of the summer, which skyrocketed temperatures close to the 110-degree mark throughout this region yesterday, five of the six Sunday picnickers drowned when they stepped in water in nearby Audens lake over their heads while trying to rescue Mrs. Mathew Simonson, one of the party who had gone beyond her depth and could not swim.

Heroes of the day were Leo

Woman Critically Burned By Stove Hurlled By Hubby

Poplar Grove, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Struck and burned by a blazing gasoline stove thrown by her husband, Mrs. Ralph Johnson, 32, was in a critical condition at a Belvidere hospital today. Her husband said the stove blazed up when he lit it. He hurled it through a doorway as his wife passed, and the resulting explosion as it struck her covered her with burning gasoline.

SOVIET RADIO STATION GETS SOS SIGNALS

Believed Calls of Polar Flier In Arctic Wastes

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Soviet embassy announced today the government radio station at Irkutsk, Siberia, had picked up signals of a weak and irregularly working transmitter believed to be the emergency radio set of Sigismund Levanevsky, missing Soviet flier.

The signals were received at 2:23 A. M. (C. S. T.) the embassy said. Before that, the embassy asserted, the Moscow radio station had heard faint signals on Levanevsky's frequency of 55 meters. The time was 9:55 P. M. C. S. T.

"There is strong belief," said the embassy, "that the signals actually came from the plane."

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Jimmy Mattern, noted American aviator, prepared to leave at dawn today in his speedy, twin-motored monoplane to search the Arctic wastes for six missing Russian fliers.

Mattern arrived last night after a record-breaking non-stop flight from Oakland, Calif., to join in the search for Sigismund Levanevsky, Soviet ace pilot, and his five companions.

The American flier said he would traverse the 148th meridian in quest of a clue to the fate of the Russians, who disappeared Friday on a 4,000 mile flight from Moscow to Fairbanks.

The first day's flight will take Mattern over the ice floes of the Arctic, where the four-motored Russian plane may have been forced down. He said he would return to Fairbanks tonight without attempting to land en route and will be ready to continue his search as long as hope remains.

"Hank" Jones, Mattern's mechanic, will accompany him in his rescue mission.

To Coordinate Search Meantime, attempts will be made to coordinate the search by establishing contact with Russian rescue planes flying from Moscow.

Joe Crosson, famed Alaska "mercy pilot," who has directed the search for the last three days, said today that if the Russian plane landed in Alaska a systematic search should find it.

In 1933, Levanevsky flew into the wastes of Siberia to rescue Mattern, who crashed on an attempted world flight and nearly died before aid reached him.

One weak, incomplete message—"no bearings xxx having trouble with xxx wave band"—picked up early Saturday by the U. S. army signal corps at Anchorage at 8:44 A. M. C. S. T., gave hope the airman were down safely.

French Film Actress Robbed Of $20,000

Hollywood, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Ketti Gallian, French film actress, found $20,000 worth of furs and jewelry missing from her canyon home when she returned from an overnight trip, she told police.

Burglars apparently entered the house with a pass key, she said.

Champion at Lee Co. Fair

Farmers attending the Lee county fair and horse show at the Dixon municipal airport August 27, 28 and will be given an opportunity to see the 1936 grand champion steer, above, purchased by Charles R. Waigreen at the close of last year's International Livestock Exposition. Mr. Waigreen kindly has consented to permit the animal to be shown at the coming fair.

This is only one of a vast array of exhibits which will prove of interest to farm folks of this area.

With the premium list total boosted to $4,500 this year, it is anticipated every class in the several divisions will be filled. Many entries have been made in the dairy and beef cattle, sheep, heavy horses, horse show events, sheep, poultry and rabbit, agricultural products, domestic arts and junior divisions.

Numerous inquiries have been received concerning the horse-pulling contest, and this will prove of considerable interest to everybody.

Other special entertainment features and a large number of clean concessions will be offered this year, as the larger ground area permits of events that could not be scheduled at the former county fair location.

A lot of fun will be provided by the hog-calling, greased pig and greased pole events. Band concerts will enliven the programs each day. Women visitors will find many entries in the domestic art, dairy, apiary and culinary divisions to occupy their time when not busy with the entertainment features.

Boys and girls enrolled in 4-H club work or vocational agriculture courses in high schools are eligible to enter livestock in the junior department.

Andrew A. Brock, Summer Citizen of Dixon, Summoned

Andrew A. Brock, president of the Business Men's Art League of Chicago, who for many years had spent his summer at his country home just north of Lowell park, passed away at his home, 550 West Surf street, Chicago, Sunday evening. Funeral services will be held at the Melvin funeral home in Sterling at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Chester E. Irwin of the First Presbyterian church, officiating, and with burial in Riverside cemetery, Sterling.

Mr. Brock was born in Sterling March 6, 1865, son of E. Fred and Jennie Lyman Brock. He was educated in that city and was married there June 5, 1886, to Josephine Crawford. Five children were born to the union—A. Stanley, F. Crawford, Lyman D. Virginia (deceased) and A. Galt. Since 1891 Mr. Brock had been engaged in the real estate and mortgage business in Chicago.

Negro Hunted For Rape Assault On Chicago Woman

Chicago, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Chief John Pendergast of the uniformed police ordered an intensive search today for a brick-wielding Negro who assaulted and raped a young woman in a fourth floor room of a loop hotel.

It was the ninth such attack in the last two years.

The latest victim was Miss Virginia Austin, 25, a former artist, who reported to police early yesterday that a Negro climbed onto her hotel room, beat her on the head with a brick and raped her.

Miss Austin, who has been in Chicago three months as a saleswoman for a New York toy company, was unable to recognize any of the six suspects seized by police as her attacker.

Out on Limb

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The new Lovejoy school was half completed today but work was halted when the school board discovered it had no authorization for it. A special election was called for August 28 to decide future action.

The board was authorized by an election last year to purchase a site for a new school but the words "and to build" were omitted from the ballot through a typographical error.

The mistake was just noticed and work on the $10,000 building ordered suspended.

Board members did not say what they would do with half a building if the voters decide they do not need a new school.

STATE OLD AGE PENSION SETUP RECONSTRUCTED

Conforms To Federal Requirements Made Last Month

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, telegraphed the social security board today that Illinois old age assistance setup had been revamped to meet requirements and asked that the August grant of federal funds be forwarded immediately.

Bowen asked for an immediate ruling on the August funds so that checks to assistance recipients might be delayed no longer.

The division of old age assistance has virtually completed the county rolls for the July payment, Bowen said, and will commence preparing the August checks as soon as the board rules on the state's application for federal assistance.

Bowen asked for the sake of expediency that the August grant be allowed without personal verification of documentary proofs of progress, but that such verification be made before the September grant was issued.

Cause for Punishment The board shut off funds to Illinois two week ago, asserting Illinois had failed to make the four following provisions:

A proper accounting of expenditures of funds and number of persons assisted.

A fair hearing before the state body for applicants whose requests for aid have been denied.

Reasonably prompt decisions on applications of individuals for assistance.

Methods of administration and supervision which would give assurance for efficient operation of the plan.

In his telegram today to A. J. Altmeyer, chairman of the board, Bowen said:

"Believing our division of old age assistance has met fully your minimum stipulations of August 3, and has made much more progress than you requested at our conference, may we respectfully ask that your representative come at once in order that your decision on Illinois' request for August grant for old age assistance may be reached in time for us to assure our aged recipients that their August checks will not be long delayed."

"Our communications sent you by air mail August 12, demonstrate that we have made even

New Form Relief

Edina, Mo., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Justice of the Peace C. E. Hunolt offered a new form of "Farm Relief" today.

The judge, known as "the marrying justice," said he would "tie the knot" for a bushel of corn, oats or wheat, frying chickens "or even an occasional fresh ham."

Tale of Gruelling Trip in Bitter Cold to Rescue Iowa Youth Is Told

Mammoth Hot Springs, Yellow-stone Park, Wyo., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The story of an all-night search for Edward Woodward, Mason City, Iowa, youth injured in a fall while climbing rugged Electric Park near here, and of the gruelling trip back to Mammoth with the injured youth, was told today by Tom McCarty, member of the rescue party.

Woodward was brought to Mammoth last yesterday, 26 hours after he had fallen down a 50-foot slope and broken an arm. The injured youth, cold and exhausted, was found only after a 21-hour search near the summit of the 11,155-foot peak.

"Starting from Snow Pass at 9 o'clock Saturday night, we fought our way through pitch-black darkness to the top of Electric Peak in about five hours," McCarty told Mammoth officials.

"It was so terribly cold up there we didn't dare stop so we crawled around until sun-up. Then we found him. He had huddled up under a little ledge to keep from the cold."

"We loaded him on a stretcher and started down."

"We were already nearly exhausted from being without food and sleep, and Ed's 220 pounds made us stumble and slip as we carried him down the shale and rock. We carried him for eight straight hours until we finally saw help coming toward us."

FIRE, SUICIDE, CAR ACCIDENT EXACT TOLLS

Grand Detour Girl; Willow Creek and Amboy Men Gone

Fire, suicide and a traffic accident accounted for three violent and tragic deaths in Lee county over the week-end:

Elizabeth Joane Brooks, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brooks of Grand Detour, passed away at the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital about midnight last night, the result of severe burns which she sustained Saturday morning while sleeping in an automobile which had been parked west of Galena avenue on the river bank parking space. An inquest was being conducted this afternoon by Coroner Kenyon B. Segner at the Preston funeral home.

Harry Messner, Illinois Northern Utilities company lineman of Oregon, driving west on River street, discovered smoke ensuing from a parked car and upon investigation found the child's clothing almost burned from her body as she slept. He beat out the fire and, placing the girl in his car, rushed her to the hospital. In rescuing the child, Messner sustained painful burns about the forearms.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Preston funeral home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. P. H. Stahl, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church at Nachusa officiating and with interment in Oakwood.

FARMER SUICIDED Jacob Schoenholz, prominent Willow Creek township farmer, during a spell of despondency this morning about 3 o'clock, dressed himself, left his home and going to the barn, suicided by hanging himself with a rope to a rail in the hay mow. The body was discovered about a half an hour later by Arthur Hawbaker, who was employed on the Schoenholz farm.

The aged farmer left no note and had made no threats against his own life, members of the family stated at the inquest which was conducted at 10:30 this morning at the Torman-Hill mortuary at Paw Paw. Guy Schoenholz, a son of the deceased who lives at the home farm, testified that his father arose quietly about 3 o'clock this morning, dressed in his working clothes and unbeknown to members of his family left the house. His wife discovered his absence and informed her son Guy, who with Arthur Hawbaker, instituted a search. Going to the barn they discovered the hat and shoes of the deceased on the barn floor. Hawbaker, shortly afterward, discovered the body hanging in the hay mow.

Neck Was Broken A physician was summoned from Mendota and with the assistance of Edward Holzer and Paul Snyder, cut down the body which was hanging about eight feet from the floor of the mow. He apparently had formed the noose in the rope which he tied about his neck and then leaped from the hay, the fall breaking his neck.

The son, Guy, told Coroner Segner that his father complained of feeling tired yesterday, but made no complaint of feeling ill and appeared in his customary condition. He had not been in ill health of recent months, the son testified, and no reason for his action could be advanced by members of the family. A verdict of finding that death was due to strangulation with suicidal intent by hanging was returned by the jury.

Jacob Schoenholz was a life long resident of Willow Creek township where he was born April 7, 1866. Surviving him are his widow, two one, Guy and Arthur of Willow Creek township, and one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Hawbaker of Viola township. Funeral services will be held Wednesday with interment in the Twin Grove cemetery, near Scarborough.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL Harold W. Frost, Jr., of Amboy passed away at the hospital in that city shortly before noon Sunday of head injuries sustained in an automobile accident last Tuesday night.

Frost, who conducts the Central Motor Sales of Amboy, was driving west on the Lincoln Highway about seven miles west of Rochelle last Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock, when the car he was driving sideswiped an east bound stock truck, owned by Lloyd Workman of Morrison and driven by Herbert Halben of that place.

Frost was following other cars which were being driven west, when

Cheats Death on Lake Michigan

Her night of terror in a life belt on stormy Lake Michigan ended, Helen Thompson, pretty 19-year-old Muskegon, Mich., co-ed, is pictured after she had struggled ashore near Stevensville, Mich., to be reunited with her father. When a small over-turned their 18-foot sailboat, the father managed to cling to the craft until rescued, but the girl was swept away and forced to float and swim by turns until she reached shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chao and Nancy Marie Cole, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Cole of Rockford were baptised by the Rev. Parke O. Bailey, pastor of the Evangelical church.

Following the services refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. Chao. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Cole of Rockford, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pearson and family of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rainwater, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Comandine and George Allison of Rochelle; Mr. and Mrs. Cole of Flag Center; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chao and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nass.

Darrell Romick left for Chicago Saturday to begin training as a naval reserve officer in the air service. He is enlisted as a second-class seaman in the Naval Reserve. At Chicago Darrell will receive flying and ground school instruction and will solo within a few weeks. After a month there, the college graduates in this newly created reserve corps will undergo an examination and be sent to the United States Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida, for a four year course.

Miss Katharine Turner submitted to an emergency operation for appendicitis at the Dixon hospital last Monday.

The many friends of Neil Nelson will be grieved to hear of his serious accident which occurred at his home Friday. Mr. Nelson had both arms broken and was badly shaken up when he fell from the straw stack. A threshing crew was at work on the Binz farm tenanted by Mr. Nelson and he had been working on the straw stack. In attempting to get off the stack by a ladder, Mr. Nelson slipped and fell to the ground. He was immediately rushed to the Lincoln hospital in an ambulance. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson formerly resided on the John Reitz farm, south of town before moving to the Binz farm on the Meridian highway, just north of Rochelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pierce spent the week end at the homes of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce have just completed appearing with their magic show in Wisconsin and Minnesota and will now show in Illinois.

Misses Ina Klingebiel and Florence Schafer departed Monday evening by bus for Niagara Falls, New York, and other points of interest in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glein attended a reunion of the Landau family in Rockford Sunday.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"SOUL" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 15.

The Golden Text was, "My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God: when shall I come and appear before God?" (Psalms 42:2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! My soul thirsteth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God. For the Lord is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly" (Psalms 84:1, 2, 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul and Spirit being one, God and Soul are one, and this one never is included in a limited mind or a limited body. Spirit is eternal, divine. Nothing but Spirit, Soul, can evolve. Life, for Spirit is more than an else" (p. 395).

JAPAN PUSHES NEW FRONTIER

ONCE more Japan's march to her "manifest destiny" stir tension in the Far East as a rejuvenated China blocks the way. The destiny Japan seeks is eventual domination over Eastern Asia.

Basic causes of the warfare date far back in history, but their immediate cause may be traced to the recent Manchurian war. An "incident" in September, 1931—the bombing of a Japanese-financed railroad in South Manchuria—started the Japanese on a drive of "bandit suppression." And that drive ended with the severance of Manchuria from China and the creation of an independent kingdom, called Manchukuo, dominated by Japan. Subsequently, the border of the "Japanese empire" was advanced to the Amur river, running between the Soviet Union and Manchuria.

Now comes Japan, claiming that Russia is pursuing a policy of north Asia domination that must be met as a matter of self-preservation. Meanwhile, a newly unified China rises to stop further Japanese military and economic penetration of its northern areas. And peace hangs in the balance. A Chinese stamp issued in 1921 portrays modern China—an airplane over the Great Wall.

Vera Mae Pool Is Wed To Sycamore Man On Saturday

The quaint little St. Peter's Episcopal church at Grand Detour was the scene of a beautiful midsummer wedding Saturday, August 14, at 2:30 o'clock when Vera Mae Pool became the bride of Orrin G. Thompson in a single ring ceremony performed by the Rev. F. H. Werchlen, rector of the Episcopal parish, Sycamore.

The winsome bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Dr. C. G. Pool of Compton, was attired in a petal-pink satin gown under net fashioned on princess lines, with a waist-length veil of tulle in a complementing shade of blue. The veil was held in place by a Grecian bandeau in pastel colors. She carried a shower bouquet of tea roses, delphinium and baby's breath.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Dorothy Jane Dodd, close friend and professional associate for the past several years. Miss Dodd's gown was a shimmering blue French silk with tulle fillet and gloves of pink. She wore a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Thompson was assisted by M. E. Torrens, instructor in the North Chicago schools.

Prior to the entrance of the bride, Miss Naomi Woll who presided at the organ, played a number of selections and Miss Alice Crandall sang, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." After the ceremony, as the bridal party left the altar, Miss Crandall sang, "I Love You Truly."

The guests assembled on the spacious grounds at the Colonial Inn where felicitations were tendered the happy couple and an informal reception held. The bride's mother, Mrs. S. M. Mottar was in a lace ashes of roses gown, with accessories in brown and Mrs. J. E. Thompson of Harding, mother of the bridegroom wore blue lace with white contrasting color.

The bride, a former teacher in the Dixon schools is an accomplished young woman with a brilliant scholastic record. This summer she received her master of arts degree from the school of education at Northwestern University.

Mr. Thompson, assistant superintendent of schools at Streator, where the young couple will make their home, is also an alumnus of Northwestern. The wedding of Saturday is a culmination of a romance started in the graduate school of that institution. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mason, Jackson, Mich.; J. Thompson, Harding; Clarence Rugg, Mrs. L. H. Chally, Ottawa; Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Hallgren, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hallgren, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hallgren, Chicago; Mrs. H. Beemer, Leota Archer, Mrs. W. Schruel, Faye Dinges, Compton; Dr. S. C. Fleming, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Carnahan of Paw Paw; Laura Mackebee, Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rause, Waukegan; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston, Katherine Nicholas of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ball, Winnetka; Ruth V. Cestlund, Beverly Hills, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Torrens, North Chicago.

A handsome travel prize, a remembrance from the hostess' sister, Mrs. Minette Yaeger, who now has a fine position in the Missouri state capitol at Jefferson City, was won by Mrs. Stella Hippie, and Mrs. Clark was remembered by her guests with a beautiful gift. A bounteous supper, served by the hostess, completed a most enjoyable evening.

ZONE THE CITY

Commissioner Joe Vaile's suggestion at a recent council meeting that a building zone ordinance be enacted in this city is, in our opinion, one of the soundest proposals that has come before the council in some time. According to reports of the meeting, Mayor Slothover approved and we believe the rest of the commission will agree.

Dixon has sorely needed a zoning ordinance for years and many property owners and neighborhoods have suffered severe loss for lack of such a measure. The Telegraph hopes that situation may be remedied at a very early date.

Not only the west side of the city, in the neighborhood of the new grade school, where it is said that unsightly shacks are being erected to the detriment of the appearance of the neighborhood, but all over Dixon there is not only the menace but the actual building of certain types of buildings which destroy the value of nearby property.

A strictly residence neighborhood should have the right to say whether or not it wants a filling station, a tavern, a hot-dog stand, a grocery store, a funeral establishment or an unsightly building of any kind erected in its midst. Property owners should be given that protection and we hope the city council will adopt a city-wide plan which will relieve the situation in-so-far as it is possible.

THE PERSISTENT SENATOR BYRD

Senator Byrd of Virginia has given considerable attention to reorganization schemes for the federal government. He is as interested in constructive change as in destructive reform.

In the course of his inquiries he uncovered the mess left by Professor Tugwell in his resettlement administration. The president gave to the professor about $250,000,000 with which to play, and a good time was had by all.

The Virginia senator was embarrassing the administration, if it could be embarrassed, by repeated references to the failure of our No. 1 brain trust in his Utopian scheme. The senator should be stopped, so Secretary Wallace was put forth to stop him. The whole thing was only remotely connected with the business of farming, a principal topic for Wallace these days, but Tugwell was his baby, and when Tugwell left to "accept a remunerative position" with the molasses trust, the resettlement thing fell into Wallace's lap.

The secretary of agriculture came forth with a new set of figures, proving that Senator Byrd's figures were too high and that the senator misrepresented the expenditures.

Persistent Senator Byrd accepted the challenge and reappeared with figures from the office of the comptroller general, the only accounting office that remains independent of the president and of the congress. He showed that figures presented by Secretary Wallace were the figures of the agency itself, statistics set up to defend itself.

By this process Senator Byrd nicked the administration in two places instead of the one.

1. He showed that the public was being deceived by the accounting of the agency itself.

2. He showed the importance of maintaining an independent accounting bureau in the government, such as the office of comptroller general has been during the last fifteen years, although President Roosevelt is undertaking to subject it also to the will of the White House. Should that change be made, then the multiplication table could be made over to suit the president, along with the supreme court decisions.

"Aside from the fact that this was the first time on record that a member of congress had protested against the federal government spending money in his own state or district, the picture of the cost and the uselessness presented by Mr. Byrd attracted national attention," commented Frank R. Kent of the Baltimore Sun.

LARGE CROPS AND SMALL CROPS

We have had conspicuous examples of a small crop bringing to the producers in aggregate more money than a larger crop, and if all natural conditions could be controlled to keep the production in that groove, it may be conceivable that such a condition might be continued.

That is demanding more from Dame Nature, however, than she is willing to concede, and at hand are figures exhibited by the Chicago Board of Trade showing that in the twenty-six years from 1909 to 1934, inclusive, large crops brought more than small ones.

The Board of Trade has prepared this statistical information as an exhibit, which is being shown at Springfield at the Illinois state fair, will be moved thence to Des Moines for the Iowa fair, and to Hutchinson, Kas., in September.

In its statistics the twenty-six years are halved, showing what the top half did and what the lower half did. The bulletin recites the findings in the following manner:

"They show that in the 26-year period the largest thirteen crops of wheat and corn in the United States made 10 billion dollars more for the farmer than the smallest thirteen crops.

"Total farm income from wheat and corn during the twenty-six years was in excess of 72 billion dollars. The largest thirteen wheat crops returned $13,899,000,000 to growers, $5,094,000,000 more than receipts of $8,805,000,000 from the smallest thirteen crops.

"The largest thirteen corn crops paid the farmer the staggering amount of $27,521,000,000 or $4,941,000,000 more than the total of $22,580,000,000 received from the smallest thirteen corn crops."

These statistics do not conform to what we generally are given to understand in connection with the relation of farm income to farm production.

Further comment of the board's bulletin is:

"During the last ten years, Germany, Italy, Denmark, France, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, and the Irish Free State tried to control wheat production and price in the interest of the consumer. They failed.

"During the last ten years, Canada and the United States tried to control wheat and price in the interest of the producer. They failed."

The conclusion asserted in connection with this exhibit is that price fixing schemes may be good politics but are bad economics.

DO YOU KNOW ILLINOIS?

By EDWARD J. HUGHES,
Secretary of State

Q. How did Greasy Run Creek get its name?

Brain Twizzlers

By
PROF. J. D. FLINT

Five little girls and five little boys decided to play a game. One little boy, named Gus, did not like little girls and wanted to get them out of the game so he described a swell, exciting game of G-men and Gangsters but he said only five could play it so he suggested a system of selecting the five who should play. He said he would take a number and count around the circle the order of which clockwise, was Gus, Mary, Dick, Roy, Jean, Bob, Helen, John, Edna, and Anne, and the person upon whom that number fell would drop out and be one to play the game. Then the count would begin again, and, using the same number, the next person so elected would drop out and be one of the chosen few. When they finished it was noticed that the girls were left standing there, all the boys having been chosen.

What number under fifty could Gus have used to have it always fall on a boy and upon whom did he start to count?

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

WHICH HAMPERS YOUR SUCCESS MORE—THE LIMITS YOU SET UPON YOUR OWN ABILITIES OR THE LIMITS SET BY OTHER PEOPLE'S ADVICE AND OPINIONS? YOUR ANSWER—

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Majority of people tested choose Answer 1. This would be my answer in the case of people who are what is called "good college material"—those who really learn something in college. For these people, a similar education will be a life-long source of enjoyment and mutual service and a service to their children. Let us hope they have a dozen. But, if they are making low college grades or dislike college they would probably be better off to quit now and marry.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. It is mostly the limits you set for yourself, although it is a bit hard to separate the two. That is, you get many of your ideas of your own abilities from what other people say about you. But you ought to make a careful inventory of your abilities for yourself and let other people's opinions go hang. Take two men, one with high abilities but a poor opinion of them, and another with moderate abilities but with greater self-confidence. The latter will go vastly farther than the former. Better send for booklet "Self-Confidence—How to Gain It" by Dr. David Mitchell sent at cost—10 cents, plus self-addressed 3 cent stamped envelope.

Inventory Your Personality

Knowledge of your Emotional and Personality traits is of great value to you. Dr. Wiggam has persuaded one of America's greatest Universities to permit the offer of the Personality Schedule used by it in determining personality strengths and weaknesses of college students. This "Personality Schedule" was prepared by one of America's leading psychologists. It contains 220 scientifically tested questions designed to measure your Personality. A method of self-grading is provided. Knowing your strengths and weaknesses equips you for self-improvement. This Personality Schedule is yours upon request accompanied by stamped (3c) self-addressed return envelope, together with 10c in coin to cover actual costs. Address Dr. Albert E. Wiggam care of this newspaper.

Answer to Question No. 3
3. I'd wager that this person is a heartless extravert and would be about the first one to squeal if the tables were turned. It is sometimes a bit hard to decide whether to loan an unlucky friend money or buy his insurance or vacuum cleaner; but then what are friends for?

WORM TURNS AS MACKMEN BEAT YANKS

Lowly Teams Show
New Spirit For Upset Wins

BY SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer.
Did you ever see a worm turning? They're doing it all over the place these days. Washington's wallowing Senators are breezing along on an eight-game winning streak. Pittsburgh's pathetic Pirates are plodding back toward third place in the National league. And Cincinnati's collapsible Reds have just made the high-and-mighty Chicago Cubs holler "Uncle."

But for the championship of the society of turning worms, and for the classic job of upsetting the applecart since Mrs. O'Leary's cow made things red hot in Chicago, we give you Connie Mack's collegiate collection of Athletics.

They're either a very brave band of youngsters, or they've been fooling everyone—including themselves—for a long time. Every other outfit in the league falls apart at mere mention of the Yankees and their big war clubs, and suffers from a combination of D. T.s and paralysis of the winning column at the first sign of their approach.

But Connie Mack's crew, staggering along in the league cellar, looked them in the eye over the week-end, didn't think much of the view, and proceeded to take three straight over murderer's row.

Sweeps His Series
Young Edgar Smith, who had been trying all season for his first straight victory, completed the sweep of the series with a seven-hitter yesterday, and climaxed a feat that hasn't been duplicated since May, 1934. Not since then, when the Cleveland Indians accomplished it, has any club swept a three-game series from the Yanks.

Despite the loss, the Yankees maintained their top-sided 10-game lead in the pennant chase, since the second-place Detroit Tigers kicked away a six-run lead, and lost, 9-7, to the Browns.

Over in the National league, meantime, the jinx-loaded Chicago Cubs were walloped thoroughly by the Reds and lost a doubleheader, 13-6 and 9-8.

As a result, their league lead was cut to four games—shortest in two weeks—as the second-place Giants turned back a late rally by the Phillies to register a 5-3 decision for their third straight win.

Washington belted the Red Sox twice, 9-3 and 8-3, to climb into fifth place and drop the Bostonians into fourth in the American league. The White Sox advanced to third and shoved the Indians down to sixth by trouncing Cleveland, 5-3 and 3-2, in a bargain bill.

Paul Warner found St. Louis pitching easy meat and the Pirates picked up a twin win, 8-4 and 4-0, to make it three straight over the Cards. The Brooklynans and the Boston Bees battled through two acts of a comedy of errors, and split, the Dodgers winning the opener, 7-5, and Danny MacFayden tossing a three-hitter for a 9-1 Boston win in the nightcap.

Two Danville Ball Teams Win Initial Tourney Contests

Danville, Ill., Aug. 16—(AP)—Two Danville teams, the Depke Battery Service and the Park and Shop Grocers, were victorious in opening games of the Illinois amateur softball tournament here last night.

The Depkes plastered a 12 to 0 shutout on Tilton in a no-hit pitching performance by Harvey Barbs. In the second game Palestine was eliminated by the Grocers, 9 to 0, with the Grocers pounding out 13 hits, seven for extra bases.

Play will be resumed Tuesday night when the defending champion, Peoria Caterpillar-Diesel 10, meets Effingham at 8 o'clock and the Danville White Servicemen face the Urbana Merchants at 9.

Score by innings of last night's games:

U. S. Public Links Golfers Return To Menial Tasks

San Francisco, Aug. 16—(AP)—It's a work-a-day world again today for 200 U. S. public links golfers. Their 16th annual tournament is over, and the national trophy is parked on the mantle piece of a curly-headed Los Angeles fireman named Bruce McCormick.

McCormick, in an exciting finish to last week's championship flights, defeated Don Erickson of Alhambra, Calif., one-up on the 36th hole Saturday after Erickson, four down at the end of 27 holes, rallied and almost squared the match.

Officials of the U. S. Golf association said the next tourney was set for the Middle West but that the city would not be chosen for several weeks.

Dean Retires As Sore Arm Becomes Major Ailment

St. Louis, Aug. 16—(AP)—Paul Dean, sore-armed Cardinal pitcher, called it a season today and prepared to retire voluntarily for the remainder of the major league season.

The Cardinals office announced announced his decision unexpectedly last night as he and his more noted brother, Dizzy, were supposedly leaving for an exhibition game in Charleston, W. Va. Diz accompanied the team.

Paul retired voluntarily in August last season after hurting his shoulder in mid-June, but had attempted to work into pitching shape this year. Recently he declined to go to Houston, Texas, league Cardinals farm, and last week pitched two innings of an exhibition contest at Belleville, Ill., for the Cardinals.

JUNIOR LEGION BALL MEN BEAT STATE HOSPITAL

Curley Strikes Out Nine Colony Batsmen, Gets Homer

In a nine inning game played at the Dixon State Hospital grounds, the Junior Legion team trimmed the State Hospital gang composed of employees and patients by a 6 to 4 count.

Curley let the Hospital team down with eight hits, striking out nine and helping to win his game with a long home run. Daschbach also played a fine game, contributing a home run to the winners' total. Manager Cummings used his whole squad and all played good ball.

Next Sunday the Junior Legionnaires will take on Shabbona at Reynolds field here to get revenge for the beating they took at Shabbona last Tuesday.

Here and There In Sports World

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Aug. 16—(AP)—Despite all denials, you can look for an announcement from the Giants, soon. Glad to see Kid Choccolate back on the big time. After a long uphill struggle he's in the main event at the Garden, Thursday night. Correction: Eighteen-year-old Billy Scanlon, of La-Crosse, Wis., isn't the youngest sports editor in the country. Kenneth Bibb, 17, of the Tucson, Ariz., Daily Citizen says he is.

Scouts are rushing to Pensacola, Fla., to look over 19-year-old Lamar Iowa, who has just hurled his second no hit, no-run game in nine days. The Brooklyn football Dodgers begin training at Farmingdale, L. I., today, and if they don't have a better team than last season there'll be something wrong.

Mike Jacobs has the old ballyhoo working full speed. First Jimmy Braddock, then Jack Dempsey gives Tommy Farr a chance against Joe Louis. Nerts. All those bean-town fans, who are hoisting steins to Lou Petto and Jim Turner these nights, shouldn't forget wise old Bill McKechnie, who plucked both right out of the sticks. Jack Minnoch, former long distance runner, is ringing the bell as sports editor of the Amsterdam (N. Y.) Recorder. Latest dope is the Indians will make another try for Spinden. 3b. 4-0-1.

Warms the Giants they'd better start going.

New York newspapers report the Giants already have made overtures to the Cubs for Gabby Hartnett (to succeed Bill Terry as field leader) but our info is Chuck Drescen of the Reds has just as good a chance. Joe DiMaggio is pulling for the Cubs in the National league. He's heard about those new left field bleachers. The national boxing and wrestling association will hold a joint meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., September 13, 14, 15.

Danny MacFayden of the Bees, has been around the majors a long time, but has seen Larry French of the Cubs pitch only one inning. Is there anything to the latest report Judge Landis is about to quit?

Mel Ott, Giants—His single with bases loaded drove in three runs and beat Phillies, 5-3.
Mel Almada and Monte Weaver, Senators—Former hit homer, single, drove in two runs and scored two in 8-3 opener win over Red Sox; Weaver pitched eight-inning, fanning four, in 9-3 nightcap victory.

Cy Blanton and Russ Bauers, Pirates—Blanton pitched Cards to 8-4 defeat in opener and hit four-for-four; Bauers hurled six hit shutout in nightcap, fanning five.

Oral Hildebrand and Harland Clift, Browns—Hildebrand pitched hitless ball in three-inning relief trick and Clift hit two doubles and single, drove in two runs and scored three in 9-7 win over Tigers.

Hub Walker and Lew Riggs, Reds—Former hit homer, three singles, driving in three runs in 13-6 opener win over Cubs; Riggs' two homers sent four runs across in 9-8 nightcap victory.

Ted Lyons, Thornton Lee and Clint Brown, White Sox—Lyons stopped Indians 5-3 with eight hits in opener; Lee and Brown pitched 10-hitter for 3-2 night cap decision.

Gil Brack, Dodgers, and Danny MacFayden, Bees—Former hit double, two singles, driving in two runs in 7-5 opener win; MacFayden pitched three-hit ball to take nightcap 9-1.

SYNDER SIGNS FOR STATE FAIR SPEED CLASSIC

Chicago's Flashiest Ace
Sensation of May 30
Races

Springfield, Aug. 16—Chicago's flashiest speed ace, hard riding Jimmie Snyder who scorched the Indianapolis bricks last Memorial day where he made the fastest qualifying time is coming to Springfield to compete in the Illinois State Fair 100 mile gasoline classic on Saturday, August 21, contest board officials have announced here.

Snyder has been booked as chief pilot for the Johnny Gerber fleet of single seated machines that are built especially for dirt track competition. It is the same car in which he won the Iowa sweepstakes at Cedar Rapids in July and in which he has been campaigning with great success in the Chicago area.

At Indianapolis on Memorial day the husky Snyder was the sensation of the annual 500 mile race, where after attaining a speed of 131 miles an hour in qualifying he assumed the lead at the start of the long grind and stayed out in front until mechanical trouble forced him out of the running. It was only his second experience on the bricks and his third year of campaigning on the major circuits.

New Records Predicted

That new world's records will be established during the annual speed classic is the prediction of Hankinson Speedway officials who point out that practically every driver in America capable of lowering existing marks, will be on hand for the trials. Pushed by the leaden footed Snyder, such veterans as Rex Mays, National Champion Mauri Rose, Wild Bill Cummings, George Connor, Billy Winn and some score of others are certain to burn up the mile oval in their battle for the gold and the attendant glory.

Track conditions will be ideal for the speed kings, according to Superintendent Pat Orr who is personally supervising the preparations. Tons of calcium chloride are to be applied prior to the races to eliminate dust hazards and provide a moist surface for improved traction.

Spencer Coals Team Take Championship

Elgin, Aug. 16—(AP)—The Spencer Coals of Chicago today held the championship of the second annual Illinois semi-pro baseball tournament. They defeated the Elgin West Ends Saturday night, 11 to 9, for their fifth victory against no defeats. The Coals qualified to compete in the national tourney at Wichita, Kan.

DIXON TENNIS TEAM REVIVED; TALENT STRONG

Players Who Fared Well
in Tourney Listed on Team

Spurred by the city singles tennis tournament sponsored early this summer by the Telegraph, several players who proves themselves of top flight calibre this year and last year, have reorganized the old Dixon tennis town team that used to compete in the Rock River Valley league with Rochelle, Rockford, De Kalb, Oregon and other nearby towns.

The team is headed by George Covert, champion of Dixon in singles, who holds the No. 1 spot on the racket outfit. No. 2 man is Howard Quick, runner-up in the 1936 and 1931 meets. Ken Smith is acting as No. 3 man, while other members of this classy crew are Chuck Coffin, Cliff Flaunagan, and Bill Rusk.

Match With Rockford

The team has arranged for an intercity match with Rockford on the Dixon courts next Sunday it was announced yesterday.

The Dixon town team of three years ago was considered one of this section's strongest before the chief players moved away forcing abandonment of the schedule. It was composed of such netters as Ken Smith, Howard Quick, Ted Wallin, 1936 city singles titlist, McCormick and Harry Pfeffer. Wallin, McCormick and Pfeffer no longer are residents of Dixon. The team at that time engaged Preppert, Rockford, Sterling, Rochelle and other major towns.

This summer the second annual Telegraph city single championships revealed wealth of good talent that made possible the rejuvenation of the old team. Ken Smith and Quick are the only veterans of the new club but the other players are considered almost as good as the talent on the former team.

On March 21 and Sept. 22 the days and nights are of equal length throughout the world.

Pennsylvania has more cities or towns of a population exceeding 5000 than any other state.

Humboldt, Neb., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Three gunmen held up the Home State Bank of Humboldt shortly after opening time today and escaped with approximately $1,000. Bank officials said the loot was covered by insurance.
Two of the unmasked, overalled men entered the bank where four officials were waiting on five customers. The third man remained in a parked automobile near the bank. The gunmen herded the bankers and customers behind the counter quickly and forced one of the bankers to put the counter cash in a bag.

MOTHER ACCUSED OF MASS MURDER

Nine Deaths Under Scrutiny; She's Held For Two

Cincinnati, Aug. 16.—(AP)—After receiving evidence in what Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcall termed "the biggest mass murder in this country," the Hamilton county grand jury today indicted Mrs. Anna Hahn, 31-year-old mother, on two charges of murder. The jurors charged her with the "malicious and premeditated" slaying of George Gsellman, 67, who died suddenly July 6 and Jacob Wagner, 78, a teamster, who died June 3.

Police have nine other unexplained deaths under scrutiny, four of which were of elderly German men with whom Mrs. Hahn admitted having been friendly.

Acting Detective Chief Patrick Hayes, Lieut. George Schattler, chief of the police homicide squad; Detective Walter Hart and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank M. Gussweiler presented briefly evidence uncovered in the far-reaching inquiry.

Seattle said Mrs. Hahn had been linked "either directly or indirectly" with fatalities which date from the death in 1933 of Ernest Kohler, elderly teamster, to George Obendorfer, moderately wealthy cobbler, who died August 1 in a Colorado Springs hospital. Kohler bequeathed her his $12,000 home.

Besides the deaths of Gsellman, found dead in bed July 6, Kohler and Obendorfer, the list under investigation includes Albert Palmer, 72, and Jacob Wagner, 78, who died in March and June of 1937, respectively, and Johannes Oswald, 75. Others under scrutiny have not been disclosed.

Student-Poet Now Sought for Death a Kentucky Co-ed

Berea, Ky., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Police investigating the ambush slaying of a Berea college co-ed were hunting today for George E. Wells, 20, a quiet, poetry-writing student of the mountain institution.
The girl, Opal Sturgill, 18, a sophomore, was shot three times with a pistol early last night as she and her "date," William Anderson, another student, were strolling together on the Berea campus. Anderson said a man leaped from a clump of bushes, fired upon the girl and fled.

Police Chief Earl T. Hayes quoted Anderson as saying Wells had threatened the girl earlier in the day. Hayes said Wells and Miss Sturgill had had dates together and that other students believed they were engaged.

Settler Erects Monuments Over Phantom Graves

Buncombe, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Thirty-two identical monuments marked as many untenant graves today in a pioneer burying ground here because of the zeal of an old settler.

Worried because rough sandstone slabs and unscrubbed boards were the only markers, a former resident with several relatives buried here decided to mark their graves. Another old settler pointed out the probable resting places but the visitor was dissatisfied.

He had a double row of mounds built in a curving avenue through the cemetery, then erected a marker over each phantom grave.

EMPTY SHELL GIVES SHERIFF CLUE TO DEATH

Fifteen-Year-Old Suspect Directs Police To New Evidence

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., Aug. 16.—(AP)—An empty shell from which he said he believed the fatal shot was fired gave Sheriff Oliver White another lead today in the investigation of the June 4 killing of 11-year-old Mildred Best.

The sheriff said he and Crawford county deputy sheriffs found the shell yesterday near a fence where Harold, 15-year-old brother of the dead girl, told them to look.

Harold has been in jail since June 5 without charge. White said he has twice made and repudiated statements that he killed his sister.

Harold again denied guilt, the sheriff said, when confronted with the shell, and declared:

"It won't prove anything. You won't find my fingerprints on it, because I didn't throw it there."
"But it was found near where you said it was thrown," the sheriff insisted.

Sobbing, the boy continued to maintain his innocence. White said, declaring: "I didn't say that. I was talked into it if I did say it."

Body Exhumed

The latest Crawford county development came while authorities of adjoining Richland county sought to unravel the mystery of the death of Orin Shaw, uncle of the Best children. Shaw died two weeks after Mildred.

He was found dead in his home. His body was exhumed upon petition of Carl N. Hill, of Madison, attorney for Harold, who arranged for an examination by scientists who reported they thought Harold was innocent and shielding someone.

Dr. F. L. Kozella, state toxicologist, reported after post mortem examination that it was indicated poison caused Shaw's death. The report of the attending physician listed natural ailments as the cause of death.

Dr. C. H. Bunting, of Madison, reporting to the Crawford county juvenile judge last week on his findings in the post mortem, said that while he did not disagree that poison at some time entered Shaw's body, he thought Shaw died of bacterial infection due to natural causes.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH PLAYS FREEPORT TODAY

Logan, Dieterich, McGill, Hatch, Pittman, Connolly, O'Mahoney, Hughes, Borah and Ashurst. Against: King, Burke, Austin and Steiwer.

Senator O'Mahoney, who was absent, voted by letter on the final motion. Senator Norris (D-Ind.) also absent, was not recorded on either motion.

Just before the committee met Senator Burke had announced he would demand that Black be questioned about his qualifications for the Supreme Court.

Burke said he would ask that the Alabamian be quizzed either today or tomorrow about his views on judicial review.

Klan Reported Unimportant
Austin said he would support Burke's demand. Both said they were not concerned with reports that Black once ran with Ku Klux Klan support. Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) also indicated, as he entered the committee session, that he would vote for hearings. He said he would support the move if any senator started it.

Questioned as to whether this might delay congressional adjournment, McCarran suggested Congress might adjourn and let the Senate have a special session to consider the nomination.

Despite these demands for hearings, the majority of the committee members were definitely on record in favor of Black's immediate confirmation.

Administration leaders sought a favorable report today so that the

POST OFFICE AT AMBOY INCLUDED IN HOUSE PLANS

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The house appropriations committee listed today a large number of buildings throughout the country for proposed construction under a $70,000,000 public building program.

The projects, mostly postoffice buildings, are on the recommended list from which the treasury and postoffice department will select those to be undertaken. The third deficiency appropriation bill carries a $23,000,000 lump sum for public buildings.

The project actually selected for immediate construction will be announced after congress completes action on the bill.

The list of new authorized projects from which will be selected those for actual construction included (post offices, unless otherwise designed):

Illinois—Amboy, $70,000; Dundee, $70,000; Elmhurst, $75,000; Prophetstown, $70,000; Mt. Carroll, $75,000.

During 1936 more than 1,311,560-000 pounds of peanuts were produced in the United States. Of this total the state of Georgia, leader in such production, produced 439,560,000 pounds.

FIST MIGHTIER THAN PEN SAYS NOTED WRITER

Ernest Hemingway Explains His Row With Max Eastman

New York, Aug. 16—(AP)—Ernest Hemingway, advocate of lean prose and fat muscles, who used to fight men in sidishows just for the fun of it, sailed for Spain Saturday after convincing reporters, autograph hunters and passengers on the French liner Campain that the first off-times is mightier than the pen.

Two hundred pounds of good nature, lusty humor and red-blooded conceit was Ernest as he threw imaginary punches all over the cabin salon at Max Eastman, the leftist essayist, and his opponent in New York's latest and best literary engagement.

"Find out," he growled, "what I did to Philadelphia Jack O'Brien." Since the records were not available, everybody who wanted to hear about the Hemingway-Eastman battle, in the editorial offices of Charles Scribner's Sons the other day, had to take Ernest's word for it that one of these days he "was going to take down Max's pants and spank him."

Tells of Battle

The Hemingway account of the battle Wednesday when the two met in Max Perkins' office at Scribner's and Ernest too Max to task for writing slighting of Ernest's red-blooded "Death in the Afternoon" was quite different from Max's release.

"Why, I took his book and opened it and knocked him on his beam ends," said Ernest, only he didn't say it quite as nice as that, for Ernest speaks as he writes—no restraint, no false modesty.

"He said to me, why you blank, blank, etc., etc., but there was no wrestling match. He didn't throw me down. I told him, Max, if you were 10 years younger, I'd knock you blank, blank, blank and infinitum."

AS SEARCHERS HUNTED RUINS FOR VICTIMS

This jumbled pile of bricks, timbers, splintered walls and twisted pipes formed the tragic monument for at least 19 persons who died as their home, a six-family dwelling on Staten Island, crashed to the earth during a terrific thunderstorm. Its foundations undermined by rushing flood waters, the building fell with almost no warning, ripping the wall from an adjacent building, leaving its rooms exposed, as shown here. Policemen and firemen who assisted in the frantic rescue work are shown searching through the debris.

The Automobile -- Titan of Industry

"Get a horse!" Jeering pedestrians shouting advice to a courageous citizen driving down the street in his early-model automobile. If you are more than forty years old, you probably remember many a scene like that. In our generation the automobile developed from a ridiculed contraption to the mechanical marvel of today.

In America, three families out of every four have motor cars of their own. Nearly thirty million cars are in use, enough to transport the entire population of this country all at one time. Distance has been annihilated, and with our vast network of paved highways we have become a nation of neighbors.

In so short a time that it almost staggers the imagination, the automobile industry has grown until it employs one-tenth of all the workers in the United States. The manufacture of automobiles takes about one-fifth of the steel produced in this country and nearly three-fourths of all the plate glass and rubber. The automotive industry is also the largest single customer for nickel, lead, petroleum and other basic materials.

Though in many ways superior to the glamorous magic carpet of story-tellers' dreams, the modern automobile is now available to millions with modest incomes. It has made suburban life convenient and has merged farms with cities. The development of this vast industry is a typical American achievement. Probably in no other country could such amazing growth have occurred. Here it was possible because the aggressive, enterprising spirit of industry is closely coupled with the eagerness of our people to live fuller lives.

In the automobile industry competition has been the watchword of progress. Competition with intelligent cooperation. Manufacturers are straining every resource to produce constantly better cars for less money. In spite of this intense competition, manufacturers cooperate by placing automotive patents in a common pool, through which new improvements are made available to all. As everyone knows, tremendously rapid progress has resulted.

Twenty-five years ago the best car you could buy for three thousand dollars was an ugly-looking vehicle that had no self-starter, no storage battery, and no demountable tire-rims. It had a folding top and acetylene head-lights, and the motor was likely to go dead at any time. Today you can get for seven or eight hundred dollars a streamlined thing of beauty and mechanical perfection, worth many times as much as the early three-thousand-dollar model in power, safety, comfort, and efficiency.

With drastic reductions in prices and immeasurably higher quality in the car, the wages of automobile workers have been going up and are now probably higher than in any other industry of comparable size in the world. The large sales volume which has made this amazing development possible is largely the result of efficient merchandising including extensive use of advertising to reach the millions of prospective car owners.

The future of the automobile industry is bright, for it will bring pleasure and better living to more and more millions of American people.

Representative Michael J. Bradley, scrappy Philadelphia New Dealer, was belaboring Representative Clare E. Hoffman, Michigan Republican, for criticizing the President.

"The gentleman," shouted Bradley, "engaged in the most vituperative attacks upon practically every one who at any time had evidenced a desire to be of help to labor. The President of the United States, the governor of Pennsylvania, and not even the wife of the President was immune from his vituperative and cowardly remarks."

"A point of order, Mr. Speaker," broke in Representative Joseph Martin, assistant G. O. P. floor leader, "the gentleman is using language about a member of the House that is not permitted."

"Okay," said Bradley unperturbed, "strike out 'vituperative'."

The chamber roared with laughter.

THIS WEEK—150 YEARS AGO

The Story of the Constitutional Convention of 1787

BY RAYMOND PITCAIRN

POWERS OF CONGRESS

On August 17, 1787, members of the Convention that drafted our Federal Constitution occurred in an action that undoubtedly amazed every Old World politician. They denied the right of an Executive to declare war, and proposed that such authority be vested instead in the people — to be exercised through elected representatives.

This was one of many powers of Congress discussed during that significant week a century and half ago, in sessions held at Independence Hall, Philadelphia. Others included the right to coin money, to fix standards of weights and measures, to establish a uniform method of naturalization, and — a serious problem in those days — to combat and punish piracy.

Most of these proposals were approved as they came from the Committee of Detail, with little discussion. In the course of the week's proceedings, however, many new proposals, more or less familiar to students of the American Constitution today, were offered.

James Madison, of Virginia, urged that Congress be given power "to secure to literary authors their copyrights," and "to establish a university."

Charles Pinckney, of South Carolina, proposed Congressional authority "to grant patents for useful inventions," and "to establish seminaries for the promotion of literature and the arts and sciences."

He offered various other amendments, some of which later appeared in our Bill of Rights. Among the Pinckney proposals were the following: "The liberty of the press shall be inviolably preserved."

"The privileges and benefit of the writ of Habeas Corpus shall be enjoyed in this Government."

"No troops shall be kept up in time of peace, but by consent of the legislature."

"No soldier shall be quartered in any house in time of peace, without consent of the owner."

"The jurisdiction of the Supreme Court shall be extended to all controversies between the United States and an individual State; or the United States and the citizens of an individual State."

Further amendments offered that week proposed giving Congress powers to dispose of unappropriated public lands, to institute temporary governments for new states, to grant charters of incorporation, to fix the seat of government, to assure payment of the public debt, and to provide an advisory council for the Executive.

These and other resolutions were referred to Committee, many of them later to be incorporated in our finished Constitution.

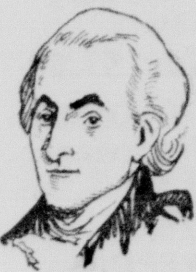

But it was over the war-making power that the most spirited discussion arose among delegates — many of whom had served in the then recent battles of the Revolution. In conformity with the prevailing practice in Europe, it had been proposed that such authority remain in the hands of the Executive.

To this suggestion Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, made instant objection.

Indignantly, Gerry protested that he had "never expected to hear, in a republic, a motion to empower the Executive alone to declare war."

George Mason, of Virginia, and others supported him, and the motion was killed. Today the outcome of that debate may be seen in Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution, which assigns to Congress the power "To declare War, grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal, and make Rules concerning Captures on Land and Water."

Next Week: A Significant Experiment.

PRAIRIEVILLE'S ANNUAL REUNION HELD SATURDAY

Over Hundred Former Teachers, Pupils in Attendance

"The pleasantest rural environment the world could offer," so called by one of Prairieville's old time pupils—was the scene of the fifth annual reunion held on the school grounds on Saturday, Aug. 14. About 125 former pupils, teachers and residents of the community were present. Although the number was smaller than in former years, there was no lack of interest and enthusiasm and loyalty to the school which had meant so much to them.

A few there were whose memories of their early school days reach back 70 or 75 years to the days of the Civil war. To them it was homecoming—for as one of them, Mrs. Emma Klostermann of Chicago remarked, "Whenever I come to Prairieville I feel that I am coming home."

There were those of a generation or two later whose activities and interests are still in the present, but who feel more and more as the years pass, the call of old associations and friends of school days.

Then there were the younger pupils of more recent years and of present days, whose dreams and ideals are for the future, and who have, perhaps, not yet realized the significance of these school days and the experiences they bring. There were also several former and present teachers there to greet their pupils.

The picnic dinner was served at about 1 p. m. from well-laden tables in the school basement. When the tables were cleared, the informal program was carried out in the same room.

President Barry Lennon of Dixon called the assemblage to order at about 2:30. Reports of the secretary and the treasurer were read. The nominating committee reported and presented the names of the following officers for the ensuing year. They were unanimously elected. President, Ida LeFever of Sterling; vice-president, Harry Friedrichs of Prairieville; secretary-treasurer, Helen Overcash, Prairieville.

At this time Mrs. Kittie Ballou read the names of the former pupils and teachers of Prairieville who have passed away since the first reunion in 1932. These are the following: Teachers, Sibbie Hoover, Sterling; Mary Gaston, Seattle, Wash. Pupils, Martha LeFever, Ed Brook, Amanda Tbersole, Laura Royer, Julia Wetherbee. Members of families of former pupils, Dick Law, Lee LeFever, E. H. Rickard, Mrs. Abram Rutt, Mrs. Emma Thumme and Mrs. James Lennon both passed away just a short time before the Prairieville School association was organized.

Mrs. Lottie Proctor was appointed as obituary and memorial committee for next year.

The secretary, Luella Powers, read letters from former pupils who expressed regret for their inability to be present and who sent greetings and reminiscences of old school days.

Hannah Eckles Wetherbee of Beaman, Ia. wrote: "Prairieville school means so much to me, and memories of school days there are very precious."

Anna Ryder Chapple of Winthrop, Mass., wrote: "The sweetest memories of my life are associated with dear old Prairieville." Other letters were from Mary Tuttle Frost, Stockton, Calif.; Warren Thumme, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Hazel Miller Madden, Yoncalla, Ore.; Louise Schock Hemmway Colorado Springs, Colo.; and Mrs. Clara Brown, Council Bluffs, Ia.

The president called on former and present teachers of the school and all teachers present responded. They were Miss Anza Lawton, Miss Mara McCune, William Landis, Mrs. Lillian Coates, Miss Luella

Baby Bride and Groom—13 and 17

Looking forward to a factory job and a happy wedded life, Indiana's baby bride and groom "dared" anyone to break up their marriage as they were pictured, above, in Kokomo after their release from six hours in jail. Norman Cohee, 17, and his bride, Frieda, 13, eloped, gave their ages as 21 and 18, were married and received the blessing of Cohee's parents. Frieda's stepfather hid them jailed, but her mother failed to file charges.

Kansas and Edna Powers Sweigert of Atlanta, Ga.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Emma Klostermann as the oldest pupil present and to Edna Sweigert for having come the greatest distance. The president thanked its officers and committees for their part in making the affair so successful and the association adjourned to meet in August, 1938.

Many lingered for awhile to meet and talk over old times with friends whom they had not seen for years. The feeling of comradeship and loyalty to Prairieville which made possible this reunion was beautifully expressed in the letter from Mary Tuttle Frost: "One by one the old ties are broken for the older generation, but I rejoice that coming generations will have season to give thanks for the background that Prairieville ideals and memories have furnished."

Those in attendance from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lennon, Auburn, Ind.; Mrs. Minnie Miller Bruhn and Mr. and Mrs. George Rikert, Chicago; Mrs. Emma Klostermann and Mrs. Minnie Cassidy, Evanston, Ill.; Vera Thumme, Washington, D. C.; Lella Thumme, Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. Henry Montillon and Mrs. Herbert Montillon, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. John Montillon and Mrs. A. F. Otis, Glen Ellyn; Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Sweigert and two children, Atlanta, Ga.; Arnold Myers, Elgin; Mrs. Alice Wilt, Mt. Morris; Mrs. Bertha Dawson, Kansas; Mrs. Mildred Hoak, Polo; Mrs. Velma Shaffer and Mary Hess, Lanark; Austin Deits, Morrison; Loretta Fredericks, Morrison; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ethersole and daughter, Irma, Coleta, Ill.

No one has been more regular in his support of the President's program. He has endorsed tactically without question everything the Administration has proposed. Politically, to be sure, he has a claim to the nomination and upon a basis of "services rendered" he is entitled to White House favor. No one should object to the nomination of a liberal. Such a nomination is in keeping with the philosophy of the President and the present temper of the Congress. But the nomination is to the highest court of the land where a man should be more than simply a liberal and politically agreeable. It is our highest tribunal, where our laws are finally interpreted, where differences between citizens, States and the Federal government are settled and where constitutional principles are applied to changing economic and social conditions.

The major objection being raised to Senator Black in the Halls of Congress is, therefore, that he is not professionally qualified by learning and temperament to sit beside such great liberal justices as Mr. Justice Cardozo and Mr. Justice Brandeis. His only judicial experience amounted to 18 months as a police judge.

When the Senate was considering the nomination of Mr. Justice Brandeis, President Woodrow Wilson wrote as follows: "Let me say by way of summing up, my dear Senator, that I nominated Mr. Brandeis for the Supreme Court because it was, and is, my deliberate judgment that, of all the men now at the bar whom it has been my privilege to observe, test, and know, he is exceptionally qualified.

"I cannot speak too highly of his impartial, impersonal, orderly, and constructive mind, his rare analytical powers, his deep human sympathy, his profound acquaintance with the historical roots of our institutions and insight into their spirit, or of the many evidences he has given of being imbued to the very heart with our American ideals of justice and equality of opportunity; of his knowledge of modern economic conditions and of the way they bear upon the masses of the people, or of his genius in getting persons to unite in common and harmonious action and look with frank and kindly eyes into each other's mind, who had before been heated antagonists.

"This friend of justice and of men will ornament the high court of which we are also so justly proud. I am glad to have had the opportunity to pay him this tribute of admiration and of confidence; and I beg that your committee will accept this nomination as coming from me

Sen. Black's Qualifications for Supreme Bench Judgeship

By RALPH E. CHURCH

Illinois Representative in Congress

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—President Roosevelt's nomination of Senator Hugo L. Black, of Alabama, to the United States Supreme Court was as much a surprise to the Congress as it was to the country generally. Since last May, when Justice Van Devanter announced his retirement from the bench, we have been speculating as to the probable successor. Probably a hundred or so prominent lawyers and judges, with known liberal constitutional theories, have been publicly mentioned. Senator Black was never included.

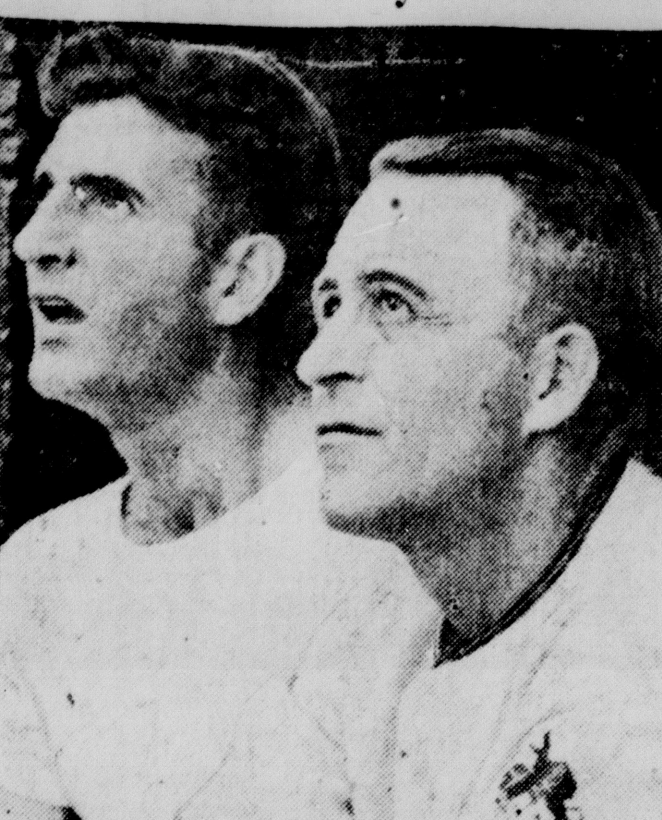

But President Roosevelt has a flare for the dramatic. He likes surprises. He is fond of doing that which is least expected of him. The nomination of Senator Black was just such a surprise. It startled the Congress almost as much as the Supreme Court proposal itself.

No nomination could be made to that high office which would be entirely acceptable to everyone. The late Senator Joseph T. Robinson was probably the only person who could have been nominated and received unanimous confirmation by the Senate. While it is expected that the Senate will confirm their fellow member, perhaps even before this is published, there are certain signs that "a storm is in the air".

Those not in sympathy with the New Deal philosophy of government will naturally object to the President's choice. But it can hardly be expected that he would make a selection from someone of his opponents. That would be altogether too idealistic.

When the Senate was considering the nomination of Mr. Justice Brandeis, President Woodrow Wilson wrote as follows: "Let me say by way of summing up, my dear

POSTPONEMENT FARM TENANCY PROGRAM URGED

Ag Department Request
For $20,000,000 Not Written in Bill

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The House appropriations committee recommended today that the start of the administration's farm tenancy program be postponed a year.

The agriculture department's request for $20,000,000 to inaugurate the program, authorized earlier in the session, was not written into the third deficiency appropriation bill reported today.

Advanced as one of the major pieces of farm legislation of the second Roosevelt term, the tenancy act authorized $10,000,000 this year for liberal loans to worthy tenants for purchase of farms and $10,000,000 for retirement of submarginal lands.

Committee Report
The committee, in a report accompanying the bill, said:

"On the basis of the evidence presented and a consideration of the entire problem involved in farm tenancy, there is no emergency presented for the inclusion of the item at this time."

It said also plans of the agriculture department for administration of the program had not "matured."

"For these and budgetary reasons," it added, "the committee feels that further consideration of the matter should be postponed until the regular bill of the next session by which time a clearer approach to the administration of the act can be worked out by the department."

Tentative distribution of funds among states included:

Indiana, $186,322; Illinois, $313,036; Wisconsin, $133,147; Iowa, $331,882; Missouri, $317,421.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN CHURCH ITEMS

The Bible school attendance yesterday was down to 189. The superintendent, first assistant superintendent and several officers and teachers are on vacation. None of the classes quite reached the mark of 25, necessary for report in "The Lookout."

Robert Hendershot, singing evangelist, who led the music at the Nelson meetings, again sang at the morning service.

Brother Barnett closed the Nelson tent meetings last night. There was one addition by baptism. Several Dixon people drove down for this service.

The pastor and wife left this morning for Lake Waubesa where they will spend a two weeks' vacation at the John Roberts cottage. Their mailing address will be general delivery, Madison.

The elders will have charge of the morning worship period next Sunday morning and the following Sunday. The pastor plans to return for Sept. 5.

Scout troop 89 gave a successful ice cream social on the church lawn Saturday evening.

Hillsboro, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Presbyterian church congregation of Irving, Ill., voted to disband and present the site for a new church and the cash in the treasury—about $100—to the St. John's Lutheran church.

The Presbyterians have been worshipping with the Lutherans since fire destroyed their church several years ago. The Lutheran church was organized at Irving in 1842. The Presbyterian congregation was about 75 years old.

Decatur Commies Reviving But Yet Have Arduous Job

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Decatur Commies made the best showing over the week end in Three-Eye League competition, but still have a long way to go before endangering the leaders.

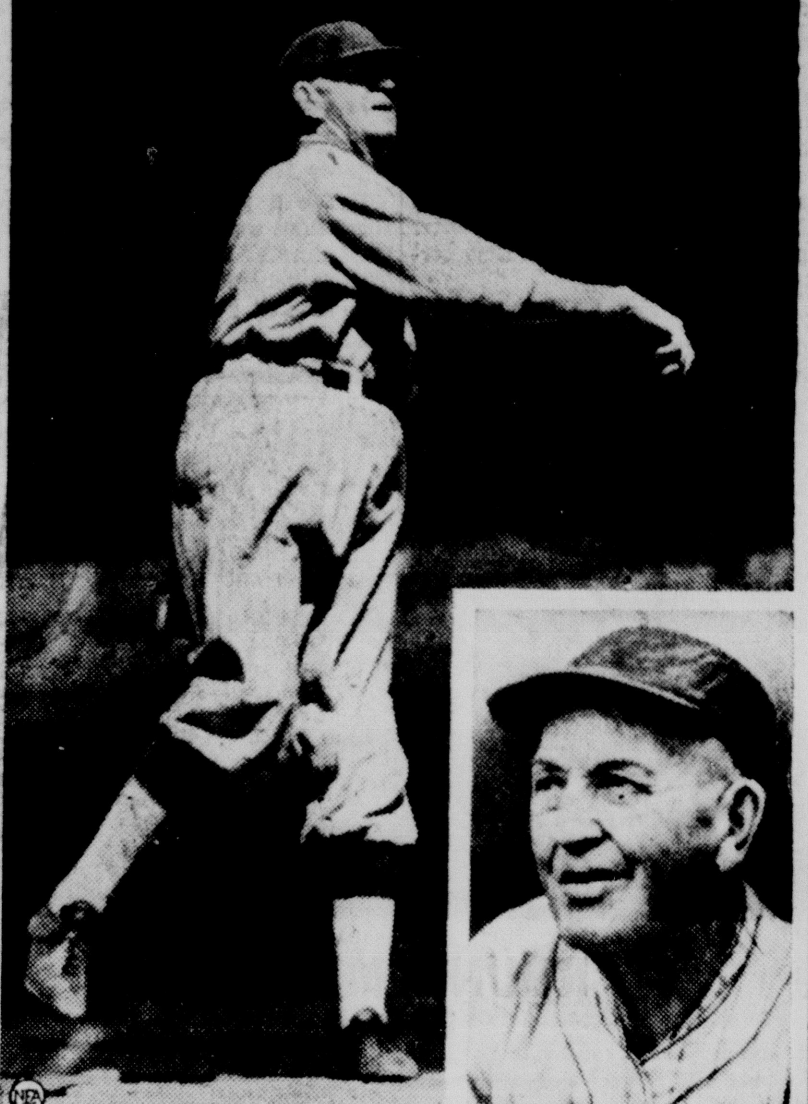

The Commies yesterday took a double bill from Peoria, to 1 and 5 to 1. Peoria won Saturday's game, 8 to 4. Clinton, still far out in front of the circuit, split with Moline, which is in second place. Clinton lost Saturday to the low boys, 7 to 1, and came back Sunday to win, 6 to 4.

Denton Tecumseh (Cy) Young, 70-year-old former major league star pitcher, left his Peoli, O., farm long enough the other day to pitch one inning in an Old Timers' game featuring Amateur Day at Cleveland Stadium. Twenty thousand fans saw old Cy retire Julius Kernen, Roger Peckinpaugh, and Bill Wambach, also former Cleveland baseball idols, in order. Young's team, managed by Lee Fohl, defeated Peck's club, 3-0, in four innings. Above you see Cy, whose record of 511 major league victories for Cleveland, St. Louis, and both Boston teams, probably will never be equaled, on the mound in uniform once again and, inset, you see his kindly, wrinkled old face.

Warning

Traffic Cops, Hotel Proprietors Urged to Take Notice

(Editor's note: Unless the usual outward signs fail, congressmen soon will close up legislative shop and travel homeward. What do they do between sessions? Not too seriously, the Washington bureau of the Associated Press suggests some possibilities in three stories of which this is the first.

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A hitchhiker can get across the country by wiggling his thumb and forgetting the law—congressmen can do it by wagging their tongues and remembering the law.

Long ago they talked the government into furnishing them with big pine boxes in which they can ship about everything free except the wife and kiddies. This was in addition to their own travel pay.

One legislator got into a jam with his extra-curricular crating. He bought a cow and tried to ship her home without charge.

Unfortunately, there is no sure way to identify lawmakers away from their natural habitat—the capital. There is no such thing as a uniform of Congress, and the members don't wear tags no matter what you hear.

To help you identify the 500-odd senators and representatives who are about to descend upon the nation we drop these hints:

1. Their weight usually runs to the upper registers of the scales.
2. They wear big hats, broad smiles and smoke large cigars.
3. Their voices are firm, unfaltering and generally loud.
4. They are likely to address you as friend, neighbor, or brother.

Note to traffic cops—You can't arrest them enroute to or from Congress.

Note to hotel proprietors—They get special rates lots of places and they know it if you don't.

NEW DEFICIENCY APPROPRIATION IS RECOMMENDED

$42,899,520 Cut From Budget Estimates By Committee

Washington, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The House appropriations committee recommended a $78,502,000 deficiency appropriation today after cutting $42,899,520 from budget estimates for the final major supply measure of this Congress session.

Almost half of the sum saved was sought for the administration's farm-tenancy program. That item, which was eliminated, was $20,000,000.

One of the largest items recommended was $23,000,000 to start a three-year public building program—postoffice and other federal buildings outside the District of Columbia—which the committee said would cost $70,000,000.

To carry out this work, the committee recommended that the secretary of the treasury be authorized to enter into contracts totaling $47,000,000, in addition to a direct appropriation of $23,000,000.

Committee Hopeful
A $33,000,000 item was recommended to pay federal land banks and the farm mortgage corporation for reduction of farm mortgage interest rates which congress approved over President Roosevelt's veto. This amount was $7,050,000 less than the budget estimate, the committee explaining that it hoped the "greatly improved condition in agriculture" would tend to curtail new loans and increase repayment of old ones.

The committee eliminated a $10,000,000 appropriation asked for the new maritime commission "for budgetary reasons," but recommended authorization for the commission to make contracts totaling $150,000,000 in furtherance of its proposed $256,440,000 replacement program providing for 95 new vessels.

The committee slashed $882,000 from $1,815,000 additional sought by the national labor relations board to handle an increase of its work.

A $10,107,065 item was recommended to pay for the Grand Central station postoffice and office building in New York.

GERMAN PLANE COMPLETES ITS OCEAN FLIGHT

Port Washington, N. Y., Aug. 16

—(AP)—A German seaplane which flew from Europe on the southern route alighted here today as a huge American flying boat was about to take off on its first survey flight over the same air lanes in the international race to establish scheduled transatlantic flying.

First to greet Captain Joachim Blankenburg of the German Nordmeier was Captain Harold E. Gray of the Pan American Clipper III which was warming up for a flight to Bermuda, Azores, Lisbon and Southampton.

Captain Blankenburg's Nordmeier settled on Manhasset bay at 5:37 a. m. CST, after a 150-mile-an-hour flight from the Azores, 2,392 miles away, where his 19-ton seaplane with four Diesel 600-horsepower motors were catapulted from the steamship Schwabenland. He said he flew much of the way at 20 feet above the water to avoid headwinds.

The seaplane also brought in his co-pilot, Count Siegfried Schack, radio operator Wilhelm Kneppers and mechanic Otto Gruschwitz.

The flight was a continuation of survey trips over the same route successfully carried out last year by the seaplanes Zephr and Aeolus.

Regular commercial transatlantic service is expected to be established next year, not only by the German and American planes but also by British and French.

Texas Fugitive Killed in Raid

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 16.—(AP)

—Police raiders in a fusillade of shots here last night killed a man described as Alfred Lamb, 36, Texas fugitive accused of two slayings and four robberies.

A woman who gave her name as Florine Reynolds, was arrested after Lamb was slain. A man booked as Carl Harrison, 24, was taken into custody at Benton a few hours before the raid here.

Asst. Supt. Robert LaPollette of the state police said Lamb was wanted in Huntsville, Texas, on a charge of murder and robbery and had escaped jail at Fort Worth, Texas, where he was held on a charge of murder and three charges of robbery with firearms. The state police official said a Department of Justice bulletin warned officers to "shoot to kill" if they had trouble arresting the fugitive.

Police said Harrison was arrested because he had been seen in company with Lamb at Hot Springs. No charge was filed against the Benton man.

REMINISCENCES

By H. G. REMINGTON

Dixon Telegraph Staff Writer and Former London Times Military and Feature Writer

A combination of seemingly conflicting qualities makes the Albanians the most fascinating study among the peoples of the Near East. They are at once heroic, implacable, stubborn and intensely spiritual. The mountain country of which I am writing knows neither trade nor industry beyond what is necessary for each immediate household. There is no incentive to economy, as there is no safeguard for property or person except the owner's rifle, and means of communication are few. The sons of Albania could pass for ripe philosophers if they were less intent on the preservation of their honor by the extinction of life in others.

When Albania was a part of the old Turkish empire war was the traditional occupation of the shkipetar or rock dweller and he devoted himself to it with genial wholeheartedness. When a besa or truce was signed with the Turks he kept his hand in practice by skirmishing with his neighbors and brethren, avenging those of his kin slain under the vendetta, or by creating a new one of which he or some member of his tribe would be the victim.

On a European trip some years after the World War I visited the Albania back country to call on some of the tribal leaders whose acquaintance I had made on several battlefields in the Balkans. I found the vendetta still exists. Inability to recognize any remedy but bloodshed for dishonor is the great drawback to development on modern lines for Albania. The efforts of missionaries, however, have been successful to a certain extent, for the Mirdite tribe now restricts its infliction of a penalty to the actual criminal, and the Shala tribe to members of the criminal's household, where heretofore it was held that any tribesman might be made to pay for the misdeeds of another.

In these wild regions it is the God of battles rather than the God of peace that is worshipped, and yet the hard-fighting Albanian kneels to the "Maid of Grace" and addresses her with a tender reverence, a childlike confidence unsurpassed by her votaries in lands of ancient culture. To die for his faith is simple enough to an Albanian. To kill for the same is, in his eyes, distinctly more meritorious. He is acting on his belief as he knows best. It was this handful of heroes in a remote corner of Europe that risked extermination rather than relinquish the name of Christian.

These Christian soldiers who were compelled to serve in the Turkish army under the imperial regime were shamefully treated by the Moslem under-officers. "Dog of a Christian" was the usual epithet applied to them.

"We got more blows than bread," an Albanian tribal leader told me at one time. "We slept on the ground without straw, and had no covering except our coats."

Often great distress prevailed in certain districts of Albania which revolted from time to time. The Turkish troops plundered their habitations, leaving neither furniture nor provisions. The clergy were absolutely destitute, for the usual contributions of eggs, milk, wood and corn could no longer be expected from their unfortunate parishioners.

The great pre-occupation of the priests was to preserve their flocks from apostasy, and it is indeed marvelous how the needy toilers of north Albania remained content with scraps of barren rock soil, while the fat lands of the plains could have been obtained on their acceptance of the law of the Prophet.

Piety may not seem the distinguishing characteristic of the race of shkipetars, but the fact remains that prayer, in person or vicarious, is considered by them one of the first necessities of life. A Serbian explorer told me that he was non-plussed during his sojourn in Albania by the request that he would nightly give out the psalms when the heads of the tribes were absent on foraging expeditions. It was discovered that he was a poor shot, but that he could tell stories with a book open on his knees. He was led to a chapel and requested to stay there and pray for those who had no time to pray for themselves.

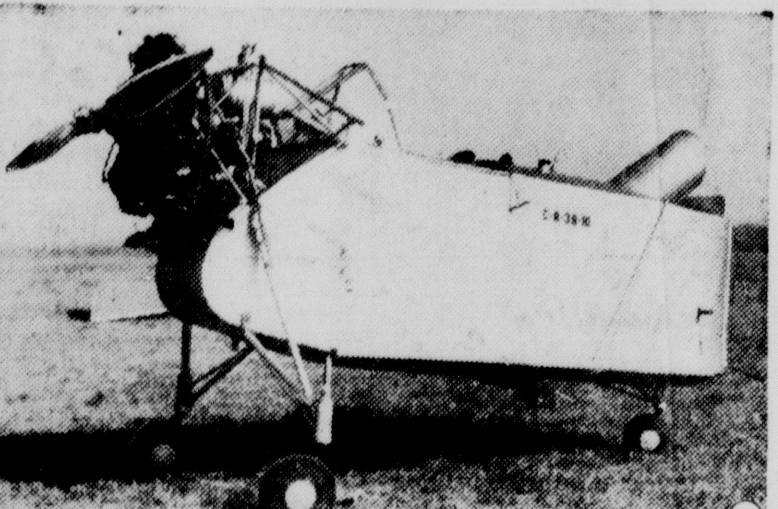

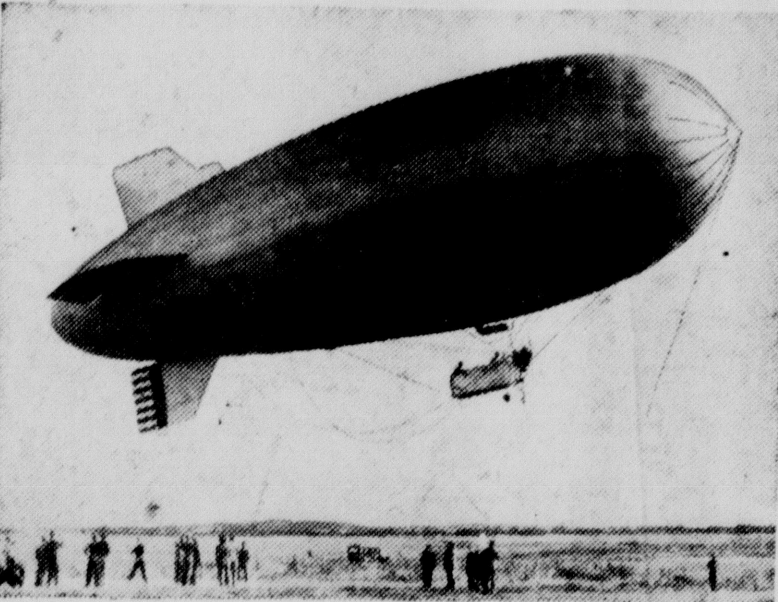

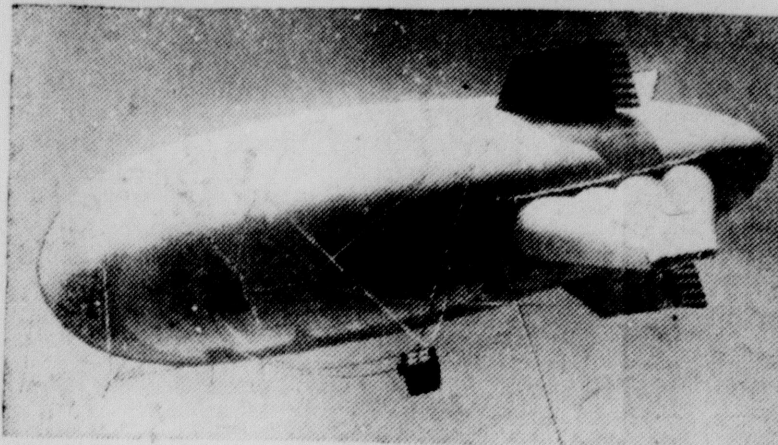

"You will have all your heart desires," he was told. "Roast mutton twice a week, and as much milk and eggs as you can manage. Only give us your word to go on praying for us day after day. Whoever molests you will be flung from the highest precipice in High Albania."

Not even the prospect of this posthumous satisfaction could prevail upon my Serbian friend to take up his abode among these kindly sons of nature. They extracted from him, however, a promise that he would send to them some Croat student with disposition toward a contemplative life.

The religion of Albania is militant, and the danger for the preacher lies in advocating milder methods for its defense than those practiced in some part of the mountain section. The career of an Albanian pastor is full of vicissitudes. As soon as he arrives in the village of a tribe to which he is appointed, a council is held to decide upon his name. If his own does not appeal to the heads of his new flock, they give him another, which he accepts in all humility.

At one time the Turks treated the Albanians as their allies. Later the Turks forced them to accept conscription with the result that the Albanian tribes opposed a more united front to the Ottoman overlords than they had done hitherto. Even the Moslemized element threw in its lot with the Christian

Army's 'Sausage' Sprouts Wings

The only one of its type in the world, the balloon in the middle photo, developed by the U. S. Army, is expected to become a very mobile unit of the artillery's "seeing-eye" department. When in use as an observation bag with the familiar basket, the ship appears, top, as the old-type "sausage balloon" used frequently during the war to guide artillery fire. However, when operated in this fashion, the bag is flown from a cable manned by a ground crew, and remains stationary or drifts with the wind. The motorized car in the bottom photo is the innovation. Substituted for the familiar basket, the car becomes a power gondola, equipped with metal rudder, giving the balloon a high degree of mobility and a speed as high as 54 miles an hour in still air. The experiments were carried out at Fort Sill, Okla.

rebels and national solidarity gradually surmounted religious differences to the extent that the demand for autonomy was backed by Albanians of all creeds.

Fidelity to the pre-Christian code of the legislator, Lek Dukagjini, binds the population together, for neither Greek, Roman, Slav nor Turk has undermined the principle of tribal self-government. And when an independent Albanian finally was created the basis of the young state was a system of stern retributive justice such as European civilization has long since discarded, but which alone responds to the nature and needs of these changeless descendants of the Pelasges.

Not so long since the "rayah" of Macedonia, Serb or Bulgar, who did not precipitate himself to the service of a Turk that chanced to ride through his village, got the bastinado at the traveler's pleasure. It was the mayor's office to lead the visitor's horse up and down outside the inn where the august son of the Prophet took his repast, to groom and feed the animal, help the rider mount and make an obsequious salute as he departed.

These and similar indignities were spared to the rock dwellers of Albania because, as an Albanian easily explained, strange Turks seldom reached the other end of the mountain passes. Nor was there any undue waste of good bullets for a woman and a stone, acting from a convenient height, sufficed to deal with the intruder.

Albanian women were not as a rule expected to take part in military operations, although they have distinguished themselves in the field on more than one occasion. Besides domestic work they have two important functions, weeping and praying. The Albanian male never sheds a tear, but he finds it eminently fitting that the deceased of his tribe, who frequently succumb to violent and untimely deaths, shall be lamented in heart-rending fashion.

Before burying the victim of a skirmish or a feud women are hastily summoned to bewail him for some hours. The process is prolonged according to the merits of the deceased, and the traditional dirges may be supplanted by extemporaneous compositions of the immediately bereaved mourners. Here is a specimen of a lament uttered by an Albanian mother whose son was slain:

"I, son of my soul, here is the shroud, my last gift to thee. Let it wrap thy limbs, my love, and remain with three, the embrace of thy mother. It is sewn with the hair of my head, in tiny and many stitches. It is washed in the flood of my tears, and dried on the flame of the burning heart whereon I pressed it."

The Mirdites still pack their guns when they go to church. On entering the church they divest themselves of their "artillery," stacking rifles in a corner until the Albania for any tendency of rebellion against what is indeed here the superior sex. To strike a woman is as shameful as to let an enemy go free. An insult to a woman is punishable by death, every man of her tribe being responsible for the execution of the sentence.

Interracial hostilities do not affect the feminine part of the population, who pass unharmed from one camp to the other, their presence serving as a safeguard for whoever accompanies them. I witnessed one exodus of the northern tribes to Montenegro and found that the women and children were provided for with a careful tenderness that all the stress of parrying and returning Turkish bullets could not slacken. The instincts of the Albanian are pure and sound with regard to home and family. The yeast of Christianity that is slowly leaving these strange mountain people eventually will swamp their ideas that there exists no remedy but bloodshed for wrong.

State Hospital

W. F. and Mrs. Wilamoski left Sunday for their vacation. During Tony's absence Henry Hamblock will pinch hit for him at Cottage C2.

Irene McNeil, a sister of Mrs. Wilamoski, who transferred to Education and Research hospital from here about a year ago, was on the grounds Sunday morning.

Henry Hamblock returned to duty yesterday morning after spending three days with his brother in Wheaton.

James McIntyre has been placed on the absent list. Mac went home early last week to recuperate from a severe cold which it is found has not responded as quickly to treatment as it was hoped.

It is with a feeling of sincere regret that we note the resignation of Lloyd Phelps, who tendered his resignation as a member of the recreation department coaching staff, effective August 24, to accept another position in the business world. In his contacts here at the hospital during the time he served here Lloyd quickly established the fact that he was one of those rare individuals who are motivated by a genuine love of those committed to his charge and whose life was predicated on the motto of the Prince of Wales "Ich dien" ("I serve"). No job was too menial, no hours too long if only they contributed to the welfare or brought enjoyment to the patient community of this hospital. His passing to other fields leaves a gap in the recreation staff that will be hard to fill. We feel confident Lloyd carries with him the sincere and best wishes for success in his new endeavors of the entire employee personnel of the hospital.

Through the kindness of the managing officer and the Director of the department of recreation, the boys from Cottage A8 who make up the Play Hour class which has been meeting tri-weekly in the A side park, are reveling in a large sand pile. The sand was delivered Saturday and was placed in immediate use to the great enjoyment of the boys.

George Poole has been transferred from the day force to the night shift and will be initiated into the Sun Dodgers club at its next meeting.

James Thomas will relieve night supervisor Fred O'Hara this evening while the latter enjoys a night off duty.

Lawrence "Jerry" Gorman, night telephone operator, recently called home by the sudden death of his father, will resume his duties at the switchboard this evening.

On our way to dinner yesterday we stopped to admire the flower beds in front of Cottage A4, just now coming into full bloom. We have passed this spot numerous times daily but never until yesterday noon had we noted the careful planning that made full use of the brilliant colors of the flowers growing there. Upon our return from dinner we noted one of the most personable of our young ladies having her picture taken with the flower beds as a background. It was indeed a scene that made us wish for some trifling scrap of artistic talent in our makeup.

Questioned last evening as to the meaning of the new straw hat that he had worn for the first time to the dining room Fred Barnhizer, official weather prophet, stated to The Telegraph that in his opinion

we would have a considerable period of warm weather before fall really set in. Mr. Barnhizer's associate, Alva Krider, could not be reached for a statement.

Historical inquiry: What person on the grounds whose last name begins with B, M or P, recently received a post card on which was written "Hello Daddy" (signed) J. L. The usual prize of two silver plated pack pins for the first correct answer.

The other day we listened to a report of a recent demonstration over the telephone as to the most approved methods of persuading a young lady that you are sick when you really aren't. The young man who conducted the demonstration certainly had able and efficient assistance from his friends.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday when these lines were written, there were 67 visitors at the information desk. This is believed to be a record for this time of year.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Regrettable Chivalry

By HARLEY L. LUTZ

Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University

An interesting and important question has been raised by the Treasury ruling on the taxable status of the income received by Mrs. Roosevelt from radio broadcasts. The contract specified a certain sum in payment for this service, and except for one dollar, the amount so contracted to be paid was assigned to a charitable organization. When this arrangement was made the Treasury was consulted on the question whether such income should be included with Mrs. Roosevelt's other income, and the officials concerned, including the general counsel for the department, Mr. Robert Jackson, advised her to omit these receipts. As Mr. Jackson put it in a statement to the tax evasion committee, "She (i.e., Mrs. Roosevelt) was in the position of an artist or actor who aids charity by a benefit performance. There is no tax on such a kindness and whatever spiritual enrichment comes of good works is not estimated as a taxable income."

The parallel is not quite complete. Artists are not taxed on their benefit performances, for they have no contracts stipulating certain compensation and assigning these receipts as part of the net income of a benefit performance even vests, even for an instant, in the individual performers whose talents draw the crowd. In the present case there was a clear title to the income, under the contract, even if there was no actual possession or use of it.

The subject is technical and it is possible that the courts would eventually sustain the Treasury's construction of such a contractual arrangement. Yet the opinion given by Mr. Jackson and his colleagues has a bad odor and it would have been far better had they advised Mrs. Roosevelt to follow the law by reporting these receipts as part of her income and then taking the 15 per cent deduction for charitable contributions that is allowed to all taxpayers.

For one thing, it is very questionable if the earnings of personal service, or any other income for that matter, can be so completely shunted by any contractual assignment of the kind entered into as to fail to establish a personal title to such income on the part of the one who earns or receives it. The tax law is not concerned with what happens to perceived by the taxpayer. Possession may be only legal, not actual, yet it must be reported. The Treasury would not permit omission from income of a dividend check which had been endorsed directly to a charity, although the original payee who made such a transfer would be no richer in money or in money's worth as a result of the dividend, to use Mr. Jackson's expression. A tax would be levied on that part of the gift which exceeded 15 per cent of the donor's net income.

Further, the administration of any tax calls for the strictest impartiality. Taxpayer confidence can be destroyed more quickly by evidence, or even by suggestion, of favoritism and discrimination than in any other way. We grant unhesitatingly that in this case there was no desire to evade a just tax obligation. The plan was devised to avoid the trouble of reporting income given to charity. Yet this is not so very much trouble, for it means simply a different figure on one line and an entry in another line of the return.

Whether the arrangement did in fact lead to less tax on the remainder of the personal income in this particular case is beside the point. The administration is now engaged in publicizing various devices whereby other citizens have sought to reduce their tax. That so prominent a person as the President's wife should have been a party to a device, the only effect of which could have been to lessen her tax, is therefore highly regrettable.

We agree with Mr. Jackson that the fault lies primarily with the Treasury, which does not customarily display so much chivalry in its dealings with ordinary taxpayers. Greater directness would have been the greater kindness in this case.

'Home Sweet Home' for Mountain Family of Nine

The plank roof of this open, one-room lean-to is home for nine members of the mountaineer Higgins family of Randolph county, W. Va. Gathered about their ancient cookstove and one sagging bed, the Higginses were discovered by Representative John W. Bosworth of Elkins, who has asked the State Department of Public Assistance to find better living quarters for them.

shorter than those of the visible light rays, the small bodies of the viruses apparently can interfere with the passage of ultraviolet rays, but not with those of visible light. Certain of the larger viruses can therefore "be seen," when they are photographed through powerful microscopes in ultraviolet light.

Often viruses are spoken of as "filterable viruses." This designation is employed to indicate that the virus body will pass through the walls of unglazed porcelain, in contradistinction to germs which are too large to pass through the spaces between the porcelain particles.

Viruses are responsible for numerous plant and animal diseases. Among the principal human diseases charged to viruses are infantile paralysis, rabies (hydrophobia), smallpox, measles, certain forms of brain inflammation, typhus, yellow fever, influenza and probably the common cold.

There is much speculation, and a great deal of experimentation and research, centered about the question as to whether cancer in human beings may be caused by filterable viruses.

One type of cancer (sarcoma) in chickens is known to be caused by a filterable virus. A certain wart-like formation affecting rabbits which is known to undergo malignant changes resulting in cancer formations is also due to a filter-

SPURGEON IS AN ALL-AROUND ATHLETE AT U.

Holds Two Interscholastic Records in Big Ten Class

LOWELL SPURGEON
Captain 1937 University of Illinois Football Team

Lowell Spurgeon's progress to the captaincy of the University of Illinois football team was not along a primrose path, but, instead, one paved with obstacles.

Spurgeon was an all-around athlete in high school at Centralia, Illinois, playing football and basketball, and competing in track. He still holds two state interscholastic records, 6 feet 5 1/2 inches in the high jump and 23 feet 7 1/2 inches in the broad jump.

Spurgeon weathered a severe test in his first game, against Ohio from Athens, in 1935. Les Lindberg, regular halfback, was injured, so Spurgeon was inserted to carry the bulk of the attack, acquitting himself admirably. He played halfback regularly and showed ability as a place-kicker. He place-kicked from the 20-yards line against Northwestern, and against Michigan kicked from the 31-yards-line on a muddy field to score the three points which meant victory for the Illini.

Later in the Michigan game Spurgeon was retired by an injury which benched him for the rest of the season.

Against DePaul early in the 1936 season, Spurgeon place-kicked a goal from the 27-yards-line that eventually proved to be the deciding factor in the battle, as both teams scored touchdowns but the Illini missed their try for point, which made the field goal a valuable asset.

Transferred to right halfback to enable the team to get the most advantage of his blocking ability, Spurgeon did a fine job as a blocker, in addition to his running.

He placed fourth in the high jump in the Big Ten outdoor meet in 1936 with a leap of 6 feet 2 1/2 inches. Spurgeon weighs 154, stands 5 feet 9. Modest and quiet in personality, he is well-liked by his teammates. If he desires, he may have an appointment to West Point and may enter the military academy after he graduates here in 1938.

Corn 16 Feet High Wins State Prize

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16—(AP)—The special state fair contest measured 16 feet two inches today and the tallest Illinois corn entered in won a blue ribbon for Russell Payne of Camden.

Iowa, which has claimed taller corn, and other states didn't enter the Illinois contest, made a special attraction as a result of the July argument over which state has the highest stalks of corn.

Kenneth Suits of Hillsboro won second with a 16 foot one inch stalk. Jesse Holm of Gardner was third and Adeline Benteno of Jacksonville, fourth.

ACCLAIM RIGGS NEW PRESIDENT OF UPSET CLUB

Complete Rout of Davis Cup Stars, Whips Parker

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 16—(AP)—Bobby Riggs, 19 years old Californian, who whipped Frankie Parker in the finals of the eastern grass courts championship, was acclaimed today as the new president of tennis upset club an organization which functioned fairly for Davis Cup players in the tournament.

Riggs, ranked fourth nationally, completed the rout of the cup squad members in the singles yesterday, when he took Parker, No. 2, on for the United States in the challenge round matches with Great Britain, in straight sets, 6-3, 7-5, 7-5, to win the title. Prior to Parker's defeat Bryan M. (Betsy) Grant of Atlanta, who played the second singles against Germany in the inter-zone finals, and Wayne Sabin, of Los Angeles, alternate on the team, had been beaten and Gene Mako had defaulted.

Mako Salvages Glory
Mako was the only one in the beaten group to salvage any glory from the tournament. He and Don Budge, who did not compete in the singles, trimmed Parker and Francis X. Shields, of Los Angeles, 2-6, 8-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, to take the doubles title.

Alice Marble, the United States No. 1 woman's player, who was defeated in the finals of the women's singles play Saturday by Jadwiga Jedzejowska, hard-hitting Polish girl, teamed with Mrs. Sarah Paley Fabry, of Boston, yesterday to defeat Mrs. Marjorie Van Ryn, of Austin, Tex., and Carolyn Babcock, of Los Angeles, 9-7, 6-1, for the women's doubles title.

GOVT. LOANS FOR CROPS APPEAR LIKELY

Washington, Aug. 16—(AP)—Government machinery is ready to make loans to farmers on cotton, corn, wheat or any other crop, agricultural department officials said today, as soon as President Roosevelt or Secretary Wallace says "go ahead."

They said experiences gained in three seasons of cotton loans and two of corn loans would speed action whenever terms and conditions of the price-supporting program are determined.

At the same time they warned winter wheat growers to keep in mind the crop control program which was the other end of the bargain between Mr. Roosevelt and farm state senators.

The agricultural adjustment administration said not more than 80 per cent of the "base acreage" should be planted for harvest in 1938. The advice was given now, officials said, because winter wheat will be in the ground before Congress can enact farm legislation.

The President agreed at a conference with southern senators to make cotton loans, but enacted a promise that general farm legislation would be the first order of business when Congress convenes again.

The Senate promptly passed a resolution binding itself to this program. Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the House agriculture committee predicted the House would approve it by Tuesday or Wednesday.

SOLDIERS EXHIBITION

The guardsmen gave exhibitions of horsemanship, flying and troop maneuvers as a part of Chicago's Charter Jubilee celebration.

ABOUT VIRUSES

We are bound to hear more and more about viruses and virus diseases. So we'd better know something about these disease-producing agents.

The term virus was originally employed to designate any agent capable of producing morbid conditions. Later, however, the term has been restricted to those disease-producing agents which are smaller than the micro-organisms called germs or bacteria.

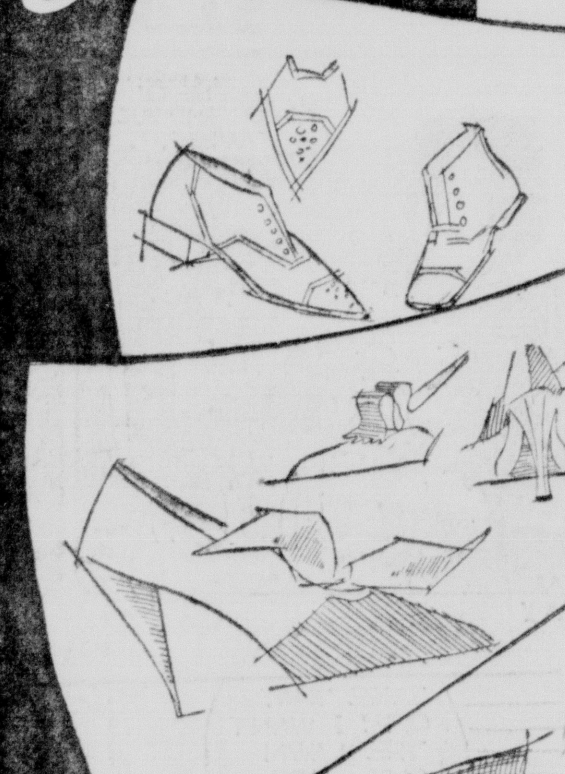

Viruses are not visible under the most powerful microscopes, in ordinary light. Their existence and shape is in a measure demonstrable by the use of ultraviolet rays. The wave length of the latter being

Will Rogers Memorial Shrine Awaits Dedication

Medieval in design, yet the latest word in architectural construction, the beautiful Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun on Cheyenne Mountain, near Colorado Springs, will be formally dedicated Sept. 6. Shown above, the pink granite monument to the memory of the late cowboy philosopher was constructed from 6500 cubic yards of stone taken from one huge granite boulder nearby, and contains no wood or nails. Anchored on 28 feet of solid rock, it is surmounted by a sodium-vapor light that can be seen at a distance of 125 miles at night. Floors are of imported red Italian marble and terrazzo. Thirty men toiled for almost two years to complete the 100-foot tower, built under the direction of Spencer Penrose, Colorado Springs sportsman and art patron, whose tree-fringed estate is in the left background. The Penrose-owned Broadmoor hotel, pool, and golf course are in the right background. Containing frescoes depicting history of the Pike's Peak region, the shrine is already open to the public.

New York's New Building Code Curbs Noise of Riveting

The death knell of riveting noise was sounded by New York City last week when the Board of Aldermen passed a new building code permitting the use of welding in building construction. The event was reported in the New York "Herald-Tribune" as follows:

"The Board of Aldermen yesterday passed the new building code, which has been in the making since 1928, and sent it to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia for his approval, which is expected. Effective January 1, 1938, it permits welded steel in place of riveted or bolted construction."

This action by New York City, to curb riveting, is one of the greatest forward steps ever taken by a city government in a campaign of noise abatement. Favored by advocates of noiseless construction, the use of welding will, at the same time, provide buildings equaling or exceeding the strength of buildings erected by riveting or bolting. In support of this, one of the city aldermen, Joseph T. Sharkey, according to the Herald-Tribune's news story, pointed out that destroyers of the United States Navy were welded. Realizing what a boon noiseless construction would be to city life, other cities throughout the country are expected to follow New York's example. When this happens, city dwellers will not be wakened out of a sound sleep, nor have their nerves jangled, nor be otherwise disturbed by the racket of riveting hammers.

Commenting on the passage of the new code by the New York Board of Aldermen, Robert E. Kinkead, who is qualified welding engineer for the building commission of the city of Cleveland, Ohio, and who is supervising important government and private welded construction, said: "It is only a matter of time until welding will be the standard method of erecting all types of steel framed buildings. The process permits silent erection and, at the same time, assures greatest possible structural strength. It also materially reduces the cost of steel erection. These advantages will assure continued study of the process by architects and structural engineers, and eventually lead to its use in preference to riveting in their construction."

No more noise of riveting hammers as this steel frame of new building working high above the city street.

Application of new welding, providing noiseless building construction and symbolized by the figure shown in the picture above, is being furthered by The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, Cleveland, which is sponsoring a $200,000 Award Program to encourage architects and engineers to study structures and products so that the modern process may be used in their construction.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
KATHLEEN O'SHAN—heroine, writer of greeting card verse.
BOB McTAVISH—hero, detective story writer.
PAT—the janitor who played Cupid.
The DUCHESS—patron of sur-realist art.
PROFESSOR BRACEY—Egyp-tologist.

Yesterday, Bob and Kathleen met for the first time, strike up a pleasant, romantic attraction for each other. But the picture is already obtaining complications—
the Duchess has her eyes on Bob,
too.

CHAPTER IV

THE Duchess's companion raised his black eyebrows and turned a look at her. "Him—did you say? Oh, yes, of course. In that case you would be interested. But look out, my dear, that no one surfs my place in your fickle affections." He leaned over and ouched with one dark finger a placid string of amber beads
round her throat.

"Now Professor Bracey, surely you wouldn't get jealous if I made a new friend, would you?" She dashed her arms behind her head, so that her loose satin leaves fell back. "A girl has to have more than one man friend, you know, to fully appreciate the right one."

"If a man could only be sure he was that lucky right one," the professor muttered. "You play me against another until—"

"Mercy, how melodramatic we are today, Professor!" laughed the Duchess. "Is that what you learned poking around the timesome mummies? From what you have told me yourself, those long dead, dry as dust, princesses all had more than one Pharaoh to their credit. You should have learned a few things from them."

He let the amber beads dribble slowly through his fingers like bubbles of imprisoned sunshine.
"I did learn many, many things in Egypt, dear enchantress," he murmured, "and when I look at these beautiful beads, what thoughts come to my mind—what thoughts!"

The Duchess pulled her necklace away and daintily smothered
a yawn.

"I'll say you're tiresome today,
Professor. You've been here two hours and not a single smile in all that time. Most certainly I shall get acquainted with the handsome young man across the hall. Maybe he can save the room absolutely passing out with ennui."

BOB himself would have been surprised if he had suspected the Duchess was taking any special interest in him. He had passed her once in the hallway and thought what a queer-looking person she was, wondering idly if she was young or old, with her strange mop of hair. Probably some actress or medium. Her large eyes, with their heavy make-up, that seemed to dwarf

her small face, looked hypnotic enough for anything. He decided she was a girl he didn't care to know very well.

Now he was sitting opposite Kathleen at the little table in her studio, asking for more bean soup. "You were right about the soup, it's the best ever, isn't it, Schmatz?" turning to the terrier,
who was watching them with bright-eyed interest.

"You know I'm glad you've taken that studio upstairs," Kathleen was saying. "All the other people who have studios here go home at night and it leaves the building pretty empty."

"Then you stay here all the time?" he asked with some astonishment.

"Yes. It's the only place I've got," she answered. "You see the folks back home—my aunt and uncle, I live with them—didn't want me to come to the city in the first place. They wanted me to teach school and—well, be nice to someone I didn't like very well. That's why I don't want to go back."

"I SHOULD say not," agreed
Bob with rather more emphasis than was necessary. "I'm on my own, too, instead of going into my Dad's business. Scion of a good family turning to a life of crime and all that, you know. My mother didn't teach me to commit robbery and kill guys, but I'm paid to do it."

"Of course it is nice to be independent," said Kathleen, adding a little wistfully, "Only sometimes it's awfully—well, awfully lonesome and worrisome, and—" She did not finish the sentence.

"Well, from now on, you'll know that Schmatz and I are upstairs. When you get tired making rhymes, just say the word and we'll come running."

"Even if you're right in the midst of committing murder?" she asked.

"I'd pass up a good murder any day for bean soup. Do you know the person who has the studio
across from mine?"

"Just to speak to when I meet her in the hall or something," Kathleen answered. "She is always very pleasant and she's awfully rich, I understand. She has lots of arty friends who're always going back and forth from her
some place."

studio. They look so—well, kind of different and interesting; I've often thought I'd like to meet some of them. But Pat would never approve of that."

"Pat?"
She laughed. "Yes, Pat's just like a fussy mother hen, where I'm concerned, if you can imagine a hen smoking a pipe and talking Irish brogue. He doesn't care for the Duchess because she makes him move her furniture around."

"Don't blame him," Bob stretched his arms. "I'm still stiff from pushing my stuff into place."

"The paper had her picture one Sunday and a big write-up about her paintings and her jewels. One emerald pendant in particular was said to be famous all over the world. Imagine living so near anything like that!"

"Well, she probably doesn't wear them down here so the place won't be raided," he answered. "I must remember to mention the Duchess and her emerald to my family so they'll know that I'm moving in the right circles. They are convinced I'm living in some hovel and maybe selling pencils on the street for a crust, while my genius sprouts."

BUT when he finally said good night to Kathleen and was opening his own door, the Duchess herself came out of her studio,
accompanied by Professor Bracey.
She glided right over to Bob with both hands outstretched.

"Simply delighted to welcome another fellow artist!" she gushed.

Bob took her bejeweled fingers as cordially as possible, but looked somewhat puzzled. "Please, not an artist—just a word grind-
er. It's much more low-brow, you know, Schmatz!" The terrier was growling fiercely at the tall professor. The hair stood up in a ridge on the dog's neck and his sharp fangs showed. "Can't think what's got into him."

He picked the little animal up in his arms. "The pooch's still strange here," he explained. "We haven't met anyone yet but Miss O'Shan. We—"

"Ah, then you do notice the ladies!" exclaimed the Duchess.
"And will you come to see me real soon? By the way, you must shake hands with Mr. McTavish, Professor Bracey. You'll probably see a lot of each other."

After they had gone on and he was safely behind his door, Bob set Schmatz down and remarked,
"I wanted to show my teeth at that guy with the sideburns, too, old man. Believe I've seen him
some place."

World's Greatest Cofferdams Harness Columbia

Its mighty flow checked by the world's greatest system of cofferdams, flood stage of the Columbia river did not impede construction of the Grand Coulee Dam, shown above. While waters of the chained river rushed through slots in the half-completed west section, shown center, with the force of a cataract, excavation and construction work on the distant central portion, in the background, continued. Upon completion, the greatest dam construction ever attempted by man will furnish power for irrigation of 1,500,000 acres and for other northwest agricultural and industrial enterprises.

Ohio Town Tries 'Barrel Justice'

The whipping post in another form has returned to Powhatan, O., as the picture above proves. In the last five years Marshal Edward Carpenter has laid approximately 200 boys across a barrel and soundly whipped or paddled them, and as a result, juvenile misdemeanors have been greatly minimized. Although Judge Harry L. Albright, county juvenile agent, has "heard reports" of the "barrel justice" whippings, he knows only that Powhatan's juvenile delinquency somehow has become less of a problem.
